DALY CITY HAS A BIRTHDAY

June Marks 40 Years of Progress

DALY CITY WAS BORN FROM GREAT DISASTER

Daly City was born from disaster.

Preceding the San Francisco fire and earthquake of 1906 the general area now occupied by Daly City was little more than hog and cattle ranches. True, by 1900 they were developing the cemeteries in Colma and the general vicinity was known as a "d—— good place to stage a fight," but Daly City as such hadn't come into its own.

A Summer's Walk

This is what you might have seen if in the summer of 1904 you had walked, or taken your horse down Mission Road:

Where the Daly City Theatre now stands was the famous Abbey House, a road house where for 25 cents you could pack away a five course meal. This was a favorite stop off for many on their way to the cemeteries.

Just across the street from the Abbey House was the old Daly ranch, a rambling wood frame building that became a landmark in Daly City.

Powder Works

The "top of the hill" was dominated by the Daly milk ranch where as many as 400 cattle were grazing on what are now main streets. Farther south, along what is now Hillside Boulevard, were several hog ranches.

Another famous building of the day was the blacksmith shop run by Bill Sweeney at the present site of the Studebaker dealership. Just below Sweeney's place was the "fuse works" a small building where for a few years an even fewer number of men turned out gun powder.

And just to add a note of beauty there was a small spring opposite Sweeney's blacksmith shop which overflowed, ran across Mission Road, and down into Vista Grande park, better known today as Marchbanks Park.

Frank Knowles, an old time rancher, had the second big ranch house in the community, situated about two blocks below Sweeney's blacksmith shop.

Fighting Days

And where Jefferson High School is located today could be found the Union Coursing Park where "racing dogs chased rabbits, and where in 1905 a special arena was erected for the Brit-Nelson fight." It was in this 18 round battle that Jimmy Brit went down for the count before the pounding of Battling Nelson. It was a disappointment to the fans . . . they had hoped it would stretch out to the full 25 rounds.

This arena was used for the one fight only, but two other arenas attracted crowds for a good many years. One, which gained world fame was run by James Crawford at the corner of which is now Acton and Brunswick. Forbidden by law to battle it out in San Francisco, Ketchel, Johnson, and the other great names of the day took over Crawford's Arena for fights from 1900 to 1912.

Commuter Train

And not to be forgotten is the Colma Pavillion where many an old timer gathered on a sunny summer evening to watch the great of the day engaged in fisticuffs.

Because of the great distance of this area from San Francisco it took a good fight or a funeral to bring more than a handful of people to Daly City. In fact, it was considered so far that the Southern Pacific Railroad ran a regular commuter train from San Francisco to what is now the Colma railroad depot.

Then came the fire and earthquake of 1906. This community changed over night from a sleepy ranch site to a booming refugee camp.

Shack Town

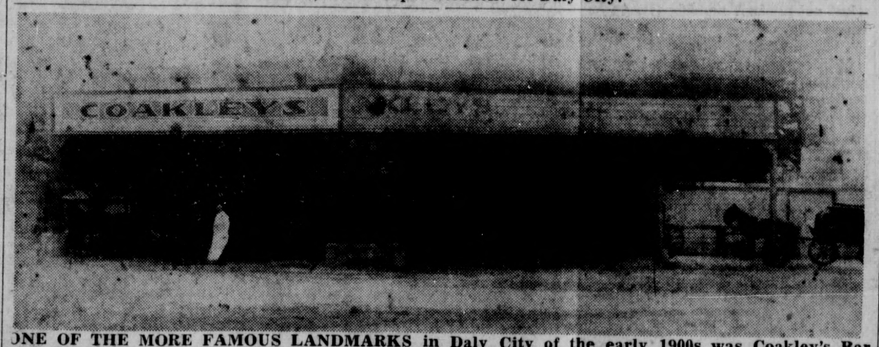
The hills were dotted with tents and soup kitchens filled with families whose homes had been completely destroyed in San Francisco. However, it wasn't too long before the tents became shacks, and the shacks were torn down in favor of more substantial structures.

In less than two years the United States Government decided there were enough people in the area to give it a post office, and in 1908 the first postal service was opened on "top of the hill." The estimated population was about 1800. Just two years before the population was pegged at less than 500.

Daly City was on its way.

ONE OF THE MORE PROMINENT BUILDINGS in Daly City of the early 1900's was the one occupied by the Daly City Record. The combination home and print shop was located on Theta, just off of Mission Street. Looking directly down the street, one can spot the site of the present Woodrow Wilson School.

DRUMMER BOY, DRUMMER BOY, won't you be my beau? These handsome lads gladdened many a girl's heart as they paraded through Daly City in their bright uniforms. They are members of the first Colma-Vista Grande Eagles drummer corps. The dashing drummer on the far left of the first row is none other than A. J. Bodien, works superintendent for Daly City.



ONE OF THE MORE FAMOUS LANDMARKS in Daly City of the early 1900s was Coakley's Bar and Restaurant. Located on the corner of Mission and School Streets, it was a favorite mid-way stopping point for funerals from San Francisco to Colma. Several of the horse drawn hearses can be seen in the protective shed surrounding the bar.

DOWN IN THE OLD SWIMMING HOLE many an elder of today passed the sunny afternoons when he should have been in school. This particular "outdoor pool" was located near Niantic & Westlake, almost at the site of today's Marchbanks Park. That train behind the lads was carrying commuters from Colma to San Francisco in 1907.

The Years Ahead -- City Official Sees A Bright Future For Daly City

by Mayor J. Paul Green

After forty years of development and expansion, the residents of Daly City can take time out to review their progress and note the changes which have taken place in the last four decades.

Too much credit cannot be given the pioneer settlers, who in many cases literally built their homes and streets themselves, organizing a volunteer fire department which measures up to any in the state, building a water system second to none, and constructing schools and churches to meet the demands of the community.

Year's Ahead

As we pause to look back, we must inevitably turn our gaze to the future as well. What is the future of Daly City?

Strategically located as it is, with El Camino Real, Junipero Serra Boulevard, Skyline Boulevard and the Coast Highway running through its borders, the City is almost certain to become one of the largest incorporated cities in San Mateo County.

We can expect more homes, and finer homes, to be erected on land which for years we have looked on as agricultural area.

We can expect more and finer schools, on sites already selected, backed by the will of the people to provide the best educational facilities for their youngsters.

Park Program

We can expect bigger parks and the development of complete recreational facilities.

We can expect more business

FATHER OF DALY CITY

J. W. Marchbanks ... Adventurer And Hero Who Founded A City

Always to be remembered as the "father of Daly City" is John W. Marchbanks, a man whose polished manners, soft voice and countless philanthropic acts belied a life of unexcelled adventure.

One of the west's most colorful figures, Mr. Marchbanks died December 1, 1947. But the great gentleman will never be dead for the countless thousands who knew him, or have benefited from his contributions to Daly City and the Bay Area.

During his 78 years Mr. Marchbanks lived enough sheer adventure for a score of men, yet tempered that life with uncommon respect and love for his fellow men.

Opening

The story begins at DeSable Bay on Prince Edward Island, British Columbia. There, in the year 1869, young John was born. His parents were pioneers who had given up an English title to come to America, and then later to settle on Prince Edward Island. It was the elder Marchbanks who was one of the first men to seek gold in California.

Early in his life horses played an important role, Mr. Marchbanks would recall. He remembered exciting races between himself and the Indians of the islands. The horses he and his Indian friends rode were a far cry from the thoroughbreds Mr. Marchbanks was later to become famous for throughout the world.

THEY FOUGHT TO INCORPORATE

Many Were Opposed To Forming A City

It all started back in 1910. The Record, known then as the the Colma Record, launched the campaign to incorporate Daly City.

Editor J. L. Brown, who often recommended a "good dose of tar and feathers" for the "blockheads" who opposed his measures, ably led the incorporation fight. He was assisted by the Crocker Tract Improvement Club and the Civic Betterment League.

On November 25, 1910, "The Crocker Improvement Club thoroughly discussed the subject of incorporation and unanimously passed resolutions favoring same."

Individualism

In four column headlines, the Colma Record pointed out the advantages of becoming a sixth class city. It was no accident that the chief benefit of becoming a corporate town lay in the rugged individualism of the day. Brown was quick to proclaim that "incorporation is especially needed for if there is to be an extension of the San Francisco city limits to include the border line city we should be in a position to retain our individuality."

Residents of this area had no particular love for the San Francisco folk. And little wonder . . . on every vaudeville stage Daly City was the brunt of many a rough joke. This was the "hick" town beyond the borders of civilization.

Just one month later, December 16, 1910, the name of the community was established as Daly City. Until then the area was generally called Vista Grande and composed of 2,000 people living in the Hillcrest, Mission, Vista Grande and Crocker Tracts.

A Name Is Born

The Record printed how we adopted our city's name: "The committee having the matter in hand thoroughly considered a name. Daly City appealed to them (A. S. Stockton, C. A. Johnson and R. S. K. MacMillen), The Record editor was among those who desired another name, but a personal preference on so small a matter should not stand in the way of all loyal citizens.

"Furthermore, Daly City is in honor of that grand old pioneer, John Daly, whose name even now is used by the United Railroads in

To The South

Colma Can Brag Of Picturesque Exciting History

(Courtesy San Mateo County Historical Association)

The original unincorporated village of Colma, which is now all but swallowed up by expanding Daly City, has a long history.

American Gold Rushers and veterans of the Mexican War founded it in the early 1850's, as a farming community with its center at the corner of Mission Street and San Pedro Avenue. Included in the early history of Colma are now School Street, Jefferson School and Colma Community Center.

There was almost a "battle of Colma" to record in its annals as well—almost but not quite. In the early 1860's the farmers, who had bought their land from the United States Government, woke to find themselves about to be evicted. It seems a court order had been obtained by the owners of the Mexican land grant of Lake Merced relocating the boundaries of their claims.

We Will Fight

At first the farmers thought they had no effective legal recourse and decided to resist by force. And why not? Wasn't this the wild west, where justice was only for the strong?

Putting to use their military experience, they moved into a barn which they fortified with bags of potatoes and fitted with portholes for shooting. They secured a quantity of rifles and a four-pound brass cannon, with ammunition for both. Feeling thus able to defend themselves, they awaited the expected attack of the sheriff's posse.

But the attack didn't come. With much misgiving and suspicions, they were persuaded by wiser heads to submit to eviction and trust their cause to the courts.

They chose one of their number (R. S. Thornton, after whom Thornton Beach is named) to represent them, and after a two

Major Accident

Leaving the Kayuce ponies for the "outside," Mr. Marchbanks at 18 went to work at the Warm Spring Camp mine, 50 miles north of Spokane, Washington. He was following in the footsteps of his father who always had an active interest in mining.

But the mine work ended in an accident which might have been a permanent disaster for many men, . . . Mr. Marchbanks lost a leg. Recalling this period in his life, the Daly City pioneer summed up his "plight" by noting he set out from the Spokane hospital with "a pair of crutches, a lemonade cooler and a $10 bill." Friends were astonished at his attitude. They pointed out he could have then returned to England and claimed a legacy that was rightfully his. But Mr. Marchbanks had other ideas.

Oh, Pioneer

Leaving the lemonade cooler behind, Mr. Marchbanks set out on his crutches to explore the western slopes of British Columbia as a mining expert. And explore he did, for this was two years before the Canadian Pacific Railroad was built and the only means of transportation was afoot or on horseback.

During the two years preceding the discovery of gold in the Klondike, Mr. Marchbanks had crossed the Cilkoot Pass, later known as the Diea Pass. He followed the ice down to the site of Dawson, then a barren waste, and was in Fairbanks before there was a Fairbanks.

When the discovery of gold opened the Yukon, Mr. Marchbanks started "The Northern," a club heralded in story and legend as one of the landmarks of the Klondike.

While operating the now famous club, Mr. Marchbanks became known as a friend to the miners. It was many a man he "staked" to a try for gold, or fed during his period of hard luck.

Alva Johnston, in the February 25, 1950, issue of "The New Yorker" noted: "The authentic hero of the Yukon was Jack Marchbanks of San Francisco, a one-legged man who climbed the pass on crutches, struck it rich and died a multimillionaire in 1947."

In 1903 he came here from Alaska. In the early years of the century his name and enterprises were associated with such San Francisco "greats" as A. B. and Rudolph Spreckles, Frank Kelly, Dean McCumber. Thomas Ryan. Senator George Hearst, father to William Randolph Hearst, and many other notables.

War Effort

When the United States entered World War I, Mr. Marchbanks liquidated his many enterprises, put his employees in the government service, and purchased whole blocks of war bonds.

Following the war he gave the major part of his time to his greatest interest, horseracing. He acquired Tanforan Race track, brought horseracing back to California, and established famous Heather Farm at Walnut Creek.

This triple accomplishment, and following endeavors, made him America's No. 1 horseman. He was the only man in the world to individually own and manage a major racetrack. His stud horses, War Cry, King Heather, Soleil du Midi, Xenofol and others at Heather Farm sired many a winner and were known in racing circles everywhere.

Looks South

About this time Mr. Marchbanks took an active interest in South America. It was he who turned the first dirt for the famous Mexican Agua Caliente track at Tijuana.

Pioneering the growth of rubber in South America, Mr. Marchbanks developed one of the first rubber plantations in the western hemisphere. On the Xinqu, a tributary of the Amazon River he developed a 30,000 acre rubber plantation which was later taken over by Firestone and Edison interests.

Small Part

This was the man and his life; but it is only a small part of the real story. Mr. Marchbanks left Daly City and the Bay Area richer for his many contributions both to individuals and the community.

Because he was a modest man, who had a distaste for publicity, it is difficult now to recount the many contributions he made to our city. Among them, however, are such major items as the introduction of public utilities to Daly City; founding and active support of the water department; construction of the Daly City library; countless gifts to churches, regardless of denomination or sect; extension of the Market Street Railroad to Daly City.

He also built the Bank of America building here, and in its early stages fitted it out with bar fixtures. For many years, until he sold the building, patrons were stepping up to windows which previously had adorned the finest bar in San Francisco.

Mr. Marchbanks is remembered by all firemen for his generous contributions to that department, which included purchasing the hose hoisters their first real engine.

He will always be remembered, too, for his donation of seven acres to the city. That land today bears his name as Marchbanks Park.

Of course there were many other civic contributions made by Mr. Marchbanks, from moving the site of Jefferson High School back off Mission Street to donating the first motorcycle to the county; but he will be remembered always for his gifts to individuals.

Good Samaritan

Individuals remember his assistance during the depression years when he clothed and fed many a needy family. Children recall the Christmas parties they were given, and his fondness for passing out dimes to all the youngsters.

Home owners remember Mr. Marchbanks saved many of them from mortgage foreclosure. He was directly responsible for pulling most of Daly City through the depression and giving scores of workers jobs.

Daly City people, and others who have lived near him, will remember him always for these things and more. They will remember, particularly, his never-ending generosity, his wise political counsel and his leadership.

Mr. Marchbanks is dead, but his memory shall live on forever.

year fight, in which the case was carried through the United States Supreme Court in Washington, they were permitted to return to their homes.

Along with its other ups and downs, Colma had its "boom and bust" cycles. A promising "Homestead" subdivision of 1871 died in the Panic of '73 but it left on its streets the names of currently famous men: Gambetta, Moltke, Bismark, etc. Later, on the site of Jefferson Union High School was built the Coursing Park, an amusement center conveniently outside the limits of San Francisco, where racing dogs chased live rabbits and where other sporting events were staged such as the famous Britt-Nelson prize fight of 1905.

Acres of Violets

Colma, as a farming center for vegetables and flowers, became known for its acres of fragrant violets.

Old Railroad

The old Southern Pacific Railroad, built in 1863, was until 1907 the main line. The trolley line, running largely through open country, had by 1892 reached "Daly's Hill," and by 1903 was operating to San Mateo.

Colma's historic and mellifluous name, which incidentally is of unknown origin, has recently taken on a new meaning. The small remnant of the original village outside the boundaries of Daly City had in 1941 a post office, dating from 1869, that seemed destined soon to become a post office without a town. The adjacent cemetery city of Lawndale, on the other hand, because there was another Lawndale somewhere, found itself a town without a post office. Since this seemed to suggest a get-together of some kind, a simple "marriage ceremony" was performed in which Lawndale changed its name to Colma.

Thus Lawndale, now Colma, got a post office it could call its own; and Colma Post Office by annexing Lawndale, the city of the dead, got a new lease on life!

Estimates of the number of new residential buildings are made monthly by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

YOUNG BLADES ON THEIR WAY TO THE BIG CITY are these two typical well dressed lads of Daly City's early days. Complete with bowlers and cigars the boys had their picture taken just after they had stepped off yesterday's answer to the convertible . . . a surrey with a fringe on top. Just for the record they are, left to right, Jack Doyle, former Daly City police chief, and A. J. Bodien, today's works superintendent.

THIS IS WHAT PUT PEP IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS. Typical of the many saloons along Mission Street in the early 1900s was the one run by L. Poket. Those were the days, too, when ladies used a separate entrance, as the sign indicates to the far right. While the styles of men's dress has changed over the past years, nothing has changed so much as the type of beer. Where, today, can you find steam beer, at a nickle a glass, with a free lunch thrown in?

1911 Was A Big Year

WHILE DALY CITY WORRIED ABOUT INCORPORATION, JEFFRIES TOOK THE COUNT AND SKIRTS WENT UP

While 1911 will be remembered always by local residents as the year of "incorporation," other things great and small left their mark on America.

This was the year of President Taft, Governor Johnson and the Panama-Pacific Exposition site selection for San Francisco. Generally it was a quiet year, but revolution was beginning to boil in Mexico and General Pershing's name was first given national attention.

And in The Record of November 25 it was noted: "The fashion for short skirts continues to be decreed, and even the most expensive materials are made in this style." Illustrations show the "short skirts" were some two inches above the ankles.

Daring Skirts

About this same time some of the boys in Sacramento were worrying about these same short skirts. According to The Record of a month later: "A bill was introduced by the Legislature to prohibit the wearing of tights on the stage or in public by any woman. It also provides that the skirts of all women who appear in public must not be less than four inches above the ankle."

Advertisement of this era was somewhat limited, with the price of an item rarely appearing in any ad. Some of the local advertisers of Daly City included:

"Cottage Saloon, corner of Mission Road and Lake Avenue, W. J. Sweeney, proprietor."

King of All

"Colma Merchandise Store, M & S Belli & Co., groceries, provisions, hardware, clothing, boots, shoes and hats, liquors, hay, grain, feed."

There also was an ad for the "King of Entertainers," a genuine Edison phonography outfit. Total cost: $34.20, including "cygnet and fiber horn."

The famous "Rayon Lamp" was noted as a lamp with a "steady white kerosene light." Electricity still had to come to Daly City.

Other local advertisers included the Hillcrest Bar, run by the Fahey Brothers; H. H. Smith, lumber dealer; Jim Casey, Pacific Meat Co.; A. L. Stockton, lumber and Mrs. M. A. Johnson, dry goods and men's furnishings.

Jeffries Fight

This was the year, too, that Jim Jeffries, "only the empty shell of the great fighter of seven years ago," was whipped by Jack Johnson before the "most remarkable assemblage of sporting men ever gathered in the history of the game."

The Record goes on to report that at the Reno, Nevada fight: "Johnson not only outclassed Jeffries, but actually played with the big white man as he played with little Tommy Burns and Stanley Ketchel."

It was noted a few issues later that: "Stanley Ketchel's slayers were found guilty at Marshfield, Mo. The verdict is life imprisonment."

Army's Stand

But, all the fighting of 1911 wasn't confined to the ring. In a terse dispatch it was noted in February: "Twelve troops of cavalry from the Presidio were ordered to the Mexican frontier last Friday." War was still sometime off, but San Francisco and Daly City men were alerted.

In the same paper a story gives some idea of the status of the men of the armed forces in that year. "The Hobson Bill to prevent discrimination in theatres and other places of public entertainment against men lawfully wearing the uniforms of the army, navy and marine corps was passed by the House this week."

Pioneers

Pioneering days were dim, but there still was room for this classified ad in The Record: "For Sale, cheap, four covered wagons and a horse." There is no record of a sale.

And before Daly City adopted its official name there was a lot of talk of calling the whole tract Vista Grande. The Record editor noted, somewhat happily, that a "letter was received by the post office this week addressed to Vista Grande." It's a guess, but the editor appears to have been somewhat set against naming the town Daly City.

What's Wrong

While psychiatry hadn't become popular, and Dr. Freud was little known outside of medical circles, there was plenty of talk about the reasons for man's discontented state. A Dr. Julius Grinker explained the whole difficulty with civilization, noting: "Noises, grand opera and religious revivals are driving thousands of nervous San Francisco people to shoot, rob, and kill."

In February The Record observed: "Lake Merced is destined to be the most famous spot in the world. Every possible argument points to the selection of Lake Merced as the site for the Panama-Pacific Exposition."

Although dead wrong about his sites, a week later the editor reported in somewhat florid prose: "At noon Tuesday, just as the beautiful sunshine came after a week's rain, as though it were to welcome the glorious news from Washington, the wires told us of the victory of San Francisco in securing the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The fair will be held in 1915. Earlier indications were that New Orleans would be chosen for the site."

Autos Here To Stay

This was the year, too, that the automobile really came into its own. In an ad of that year was the following copy: "You still have an opportunity to purchase a Hudson Touring car. Price: $1,300 FOB San Francisco. The price includes three oil lamps, two gas lamps, generator, horn, tire repair outfit, tools and jack."

Other cars advertised this year included: 1910 Buick 30 hp, $1,350; 1908 Berliet Touring Car, $1,500. Who says things were cheap in 1911?

Taking cognizance of the position of cars, the Supervisors ordered that "deputy sheriffs be appointed with motor cycles in the Third Township to patrol the roads and enforce the 20 mile speed limit for automobiles." There is no mention of the speed limit for horses.

Another machine was coming into its own . . . the airplane. January 20, 1911, it was noted: "James Radley, the English driver of a Bleriot monoplane, was first to make a flight over the city (San Francisco) and skim the bay. And to Hubert Latham, pilot of a long, low rakish Antoinette, goes the glory of being the first to enter the Golden Gate with a craft above the water."

Aviation First

But there was a more serious note to aviation . . . "The principal event Sunday, the 16th, was made by Philip Parmales, taking Lt. Myron S. Crisely aloft with him, he made first performance of the first military experiment since aviation began. This was the dropping of an explosive bomb for the first time. The plane at the altitude of 550 feet dropped the bomb within 10 feet of the target."

And a week later in San Francisco Bay . . . "Eugene Ely completed the second phase of flying from the deck of a war vessel to land. Wednesday he flew to the deck of an anchored battleship of the Pacific Fleet off of San Francisco. He then rose from the vessel and flew back to the aviation grounds. It now merely remains to try the landings and starts from the deck of a moving vessel at sea."

Eight Hour Day

Not only aviation, but women were coming to demand their rightful place. Governor Johnson noted women had working rights by "affixing his signature to a bill providing for an 8 hour work-day for women workers." Previous to this the working day stretched from 10 to 14 hours.

And when the gals weren't working they donned their evening finery, no small item of which was shoes. "Cut steel and rhinestone predominate in the shoe buckle for the decorating of evening slippers this season."

Here, in Daly City, the same week the Bear Flag was adopted as the official state flag of California another story made headlines in The Record. This was a fire . . . "The nice little cottage of William Schauer's on Los Angeles Avenue was completely destroyed by fire at 8:30 Sunday evening by the explosion of a Rochester Lamp. Damage was estimated at $1,500. Volunteer Fire Company No. 3 arrived with their chemical engine and soon extinguished the fire. Company No. 3 and all the firemen did valiant work, but were handicapped on account of lack of water."

What Happened To L.A.

There's plenty of water in Daly City today, but what in the world ever happened to Los Angeles Avenue?

Another big news item in 1911, as in 1951, concerned the Jefferson Elementary School Board. In a blazing headline of May 13 the editor proclaimed: "School Question Harmonized." He goes on to explain: "The Jefferson School District is in peace and harmony. Two schools will be built. Messr. Belli, Sunderman and Savage are in perfect harmony for the two new school sites. Twelve lots have been selected in the Crocker Tract for $6,000, a site known as the Little Patch was secured at $6,000 in the Vista Grande Tract."

Fire Dept.

Returning to the fire department, it was June 13, 1910 that Commissioners Smith, Smach and Quillinan founded the first real volunteer department. It was noted that "only one vote was cast against the fire tax election of the Vista Grande Fire Department. The Commissioners are making arrangements to perfect and equip three volunteer companies."

And to round out the year, The Record moved from Knowles Building to its own new building, corner of Mission Road Theta Avenue, and Vista Grande. And what was the cost of the beautiful new building? "The lot was purchased for $1,500 and the building was completed at the cost of $1,000."

Yes, 1911 was a great year not only for Daly City, but the whole country.

HENRY SUNDERMAN, Daly City pioneer is responsible in no small part for much of the back ground material for this anniversary issue of The Record. He, like many Daly City pioneers, has watched the growth of the town with interest and appreciation.

BIBLE SCHOOL OPENS AT CHURCH MONDAY

Daily vacation Bible school is scheduled at the Grace Presbyterian Church at Crocker and Winchester streets every week day morning from June 25 through July 6.

Through special arrangements made with the Board of Christian Education, four young persons of college age, known as Caravaners will assist Mrs. William Harberts with the classes of the school.

During the afternoons during this period the Caravaners will make a religious survey of Daly City and citizens are asked to cooperate with this project.

Local Legion Post Will Host Social

As their regular monthly social, members of the Daly City American Legion Post No. 410 will be hosts at an entertainment at the Legion hall, 474 San Diego avenue, June 30, beginning at 7 p.m. The public is cordially invited.

Phil Diltz, second vice commander of the local post, is social chairman of the even, assisted by Walter Rector, commander of the Daly City Post. Refreshments will be served.

and more merchants, to serve the ever-increasing population.

We can expect better and more complete municipal services, as the City grows and is better able to finance such improvements.

And, most important, we can expect more of the same fine type of people who are moving to Daly City in increasing numbers—people with families, wage-earners, workers, and people who face the future with a smile and a determination to improve their lot.

signs on their cars, "Daly's Hill." His home on the hill was established 40 years ago, when no other building of any kind could be seen from here."

The boundary lines of the proposed city would include the aforementioned tracts, extending south from the San Francisco line to School and Price streets, and from Junipero Serra boulevard on the west to the summit on the hills. The Record estimated the population to be 2,900, and "therefore Daly City will be the second town in size in San Mateo County." (The first was South San Francisco.)

Sa'oon Tax

Many an old timer will remember that a good part of that population spent their off hours in the scores of salons. And the proponents of the incorporation weren't forgetting the swinging doors. It was Thomas Hickey, one of the trustees of South San Francisco, who emphasized time and time again that incorporation would not "mean the cost of saloon licenses would be raised."

Approval by the county supervisors came next, and then on February 10, 1911 The Record announced: "Election for the ratification of incorporation will be held Saturday, March 18, 1911.

Advantages

Making a final plea for a "yes" vote, The Record listed the advantages of becoming a city. These included: "protection of streets and sewers; prosperity for all; five-cent car fare to Orange Avenue; lighted streets; Mission road paved; double present population."

Then the eventful day rolled around, and of the 2,000 good citizens 274 turned out to pass the measure by two votes . . . 138 for incorporation, 136 again. It was a narrow squeeze, and not without a fight. At one of the polls 46 ballots were rejected because of their "irregularity and ambiguity." This resulted in an "unfortunate disturbance" which was checked from bursting into a full fledged battle by the "determined action of the election board."

Explanation

One week later The Record came out with an explanation of the 46 uncounted ballots. "The 'impossibles,' as the most prominent Socialist leaders in California designate the obstructive element in that party, held a protest meeting at Knowle's Hall last Sunday against the 'outrageous conduct of the election board.' A speaker from God-only-knows-where harangued the few present, but accidentally said one truth: 'that it would be impossible to find 46 voters here so unintelligent as to improperly mark their ballots.' That is the exact opinion of the election board, that the rejected ballots were willfully covered with distinguishing marks."

But despite the strong left wing element of the Socialist party and the battle between the Democrats and Republicans, Daly City became a sixth class city March 18.

First Council

On the same ballot the citizens elected their first mayor and board of trustees, Edward Ereyer was named mayor with Martin Oberhaus, A. J. Green, Thomas J. Mullins and Dennis Quillinan serving on the council.

Also listed among the first "city dads" were Walther J. White, clerk; Fred J. Hopper, marshal; T. Sheen, treasurer; E. D. Knight, city attorney and Judge Ellis C. Johnson, recorder.

Wednesday evening, March 22, 1911, the gentlemen gathered in a converted tool shed behind what is now the city hall to be sworn into office. The Record reported a "goodly crowd" and "the enthusiasm manifest by the citizens certainly is a good omen. Each gentleman (the council) seemed to drop into the spirit of his position with ease, acting like real old timers."

Thus it was that Daly City became a city, and started forward as an independent community.

ALPINE COUNTY TROUT

Anglers have been making many fine catches of trout recently along the Carson Rivers in Alpine County, according to the National Automobile Club. The water has been clearing up rapidly.

A LONG LOOK AT THE "GOOD OLD DAYS"

One of the favorite terms associated with any birthday of more than 40 years is the "good old days."

It is natural for men to look back and recall a life in many ways better than now. However, after going through reams of material on Daly City's early history we take some exception to the phrase the "good old days."

Taken from the viewpoint of comfort, the past was nothing short of sheer hell. We defy anyone to tell us he would prefer a back house to a modern bathroom; hot wood stoves to gas ranges, high starched collars to sport shirts or oil lamps to electricity. And there are many more marks of progress that punch a big hole in the old timer's recollections.

However, while physical progress has come, the mental strain has increased. Gone are the days when a man could be reasonably sure of living his life without fear of war. Gone are the days when no one questioned the basic truths of God, love and country. And forever lost is the sense of leisure associated with slow trains, horses and buggies.

This last loss is one of the most important. For without time to think, man is naturally confused and more apt to latch on to anything from communism to fanaticism in other directions.

Also lost forever are the frontiers, and the feeling of "elbow room" associated with America. No longer can a man up and quit his job, and strike out for unsettled territory. Not only has America "shrunk," but the whole world has reached the point where today it is quicker to fly to Paris than it was to take a train from San Francisco to Los Angeles 40 years ago.

Lost, too, is the sense of security associated with the land. Where once the country was predominantly agrarian, it is now mechanized. And what man can feel the pride in a machine, the security in a job tending a machine that he had in raising his own food?

All of this builds up to the greatest loss of all . . . individuality. Where once every man was unto himself sufficient, society is now so constructed that thousands depend one upon the other. Men have come to feel that the state must care for them, that the world owes them a living, that centralization of effort and mind is the only real thing. A "rugged individualist" is a term fast losing its meaning in the American vocabulary.

This is not to scourge America in general, or Daly City in particular. It is merely an observation between today and the "good old days" that might have been mighty uncomfortable from a physical standpoint, but just as desirable from a mental viewpoint.

From A Corner

By Bill Katz

The other day a woman called us inquiring about rent control. We told her it was no longer in effect here, and the moan from the other end of the line was loud and clear.

"Why," she said, "what am I going to do? My landlord has raised the rent 100 per cent."

There's not much she can do, except move out. Trouble is, she wont find another apartment this side of the moon. She's in a real spot, and no one can help her.

We think this woman's case is a clear example of why the government has to slap controls on everything from beef to bottle tops. Some 80 per cent of the population are willing to live and let live, but the other 20 per cent are out to jump their bank accounts regardless of the cost to others.

No Such Animal

There's a lot of talk that the old law of supply and demand doesn't make regulations necessary. Trouble is that law has been about as phony over the past 12 years, as the economists who write reports on the cost of living. There just ain't no such animal, and won't be as long as this country is gearing for war.

Now if everyone would just be slightly greedy, fine and dandy. Then labor wouldn't ask for more than a fair raise, and manufacturer's wouldn't jump the price of their goods more than two or three per cent. But what happens? The answer is simple . . . too many peole around like that Daly City landlord. They figure to get it while they can, and let the other fellow hang.

Government Moves

It's at this point the government steps in with those nasty controls. No one wants them, not even the parties they allegedly help. However, with the law of supply and demand no longer in the running; with hogs trying to pick up every dollar, what other answer is there but controls?

Controls are a bad business in that they curb individual enterprise, and put the squeeze on 80 per cent of the populace. Yet, we think it is worth it; for no other reason than to cut the purse strings of "gentlemen" like our Daly City landlord. When someone can tell us how to bring the Ten Commandments home to the guys who would rather squeeze a dollar than a gal, we think that party will have found the one thing to replace government controls.

Appropriate Funds For Deaf Schools

The Assembly has passed bills providing special appropriations for major construction and improvement at the California School for the Deaf in Berkeley and the proposed school for the deaf in Southern California.

One measure would provide $875,000 for the Berkeley school where an extensive program of building, repair and improvements is planned.

The second would provide $385,000 for the school in Southern California where extensive development is planned. Both appropriations would be taken from the general fund.

Pioneer Recalls Early History

H. H. SMITH LAUDS J. W. MARCHBANKS FOR ROLL HE PLAYED IN DEVELOPMENT OF DALY CITY

June 5, 1951

Editor, The Record
Daly City, California
Dear Sir:

Looking back over the years during which time this area has been transformed from farm and dairy lands to our splendid city of today, and mindful that this year marks the fortieth year since the community was incorporated as a city, I realize that there are important phases of its life and development which are not to be found in public or other written records. Therefore, I am prompted to tell some of that story of Daly City's interesting history and to give those who played an important part their due recognition and well-merited mention and credit.

Being familiar with this settlement from the time I began moving the so-called refugee shacks of the refugees of the San Francisco fire and earthquake of 1906 from their various temporary locations, mostly in the public parks of San Francisco, to the northern section of San Mateo County, now Daly City, and being active in our community, civic and political life for many years thereafter, I was in an unusually good position to know just about all there was to know about what was going on.

Those seeking a location for their temporary homes were attracted here for several reasons, but the one outstanding reason was very likely the possibility of purchasing a lot for $10.00 down and $10.00 a month and being able to have their so-called refugee shacks moved here and put on a temporary foundation and ready for occupancy for $25.00.

With its many advantages, there were also many drawbacks, such as a complete lack of modern conveniences and services, improvements, and municipal and public services. These settlers were virtually in a no-man's land, just over the county line and out of the jurisdiction of San Francisco, and far removed from the San Mateo County government seat. Therefore, with the lack of law enforcement and order that was to be expected under the circumstances it was just natural that certain influences of the big city life and activities—both good and bad, but mostly bad—became a part of our new community life.

Since the new community was also composed almost entirely of families who lost their all in the fire and earthquake, it was also just natural that there would be at times needy persons and families and the resultant problem of caring for them.

It is of these two problems, a much needed control of bad influences and care for the needy and of the solution of these problems—very much as the direct or indirect result of one man's interest, influence, charitableness, and generosity—that I wish to write at this time.

As I have already remarked I am not writing of happenings, circumstances, endeavors or accomplishments that are to be found in official or other written records of our community and city, but rather of one person's good deeds that are recorded in many other places and ways, such as in the memories, the hearts and the appreciation of countless numbers who through personal experience or otherwise have known what the kindly interest and good deeds of this man meant when and wherever necessity required or opportunity offered for his generous help. To many it meant insecurity turned to security, illness to health, despair to hope, sorrow to joy, worry to happiness.

The results of this man's neighborliness and spirit of helpfulness were also recorded in happy homes that would otherwise have been lost, in more complete educations, in happier and healthier individuals, in our better recreation areas, civic improvements, churches, school sites and schools, and public buildings and institutions. His personal acquaintances and influences, especially with heads of governmental agencies and of public service corporations, made the endeavors to bring all these things into being more certain of cooperative efforts and fuller accomplishments.

His beneficial activities in our community also included among others one which might be considered a written record to a certain extent, the publication of the local newspaper, the Daly City Record, in a manner and with a purpose entirely different from the usual chief or only aim of some newspapers, that of increasing the profits by sensationalism. I was happy to be at the head of the Daly City Record when the present policy was established years ago—the policy of extending both hands to lift up and encourage those less fortunate in the journey of life rather than that of shoving them further down in the mud for the sensation and splash it would cause in the hope of putting more cash in the till.

Many who became aware of this neighborly spirit still occasionally talk of the following letter which through the cooperation of the Daly City Record was sent at that time to all newcomers to our city:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Jones:

It has come to our attention that you are a new resident of our city. We welcome you and hope you will make many friends with whom you will be happy.

To make it easier for you to become acquainted and to keep in touch with what is going on in the community, we are sending you the Daly City Record for six months without charge so you may get to know us just as we are.

Neighborly yours,
H. H. Smith, Mayor

It is indeed gratifying to find the policies and ideals of the deceased former owner of the Daly City Record living on and being exemplified in the paper which over the years has exercised such a fine and helpful influence in our community. My congratulations and thanks to all those responsible for its continuing to do so.

Quite naturally you know of whom I have written, but to those who may not know, this story is about our former resident and my close personal friend of many years, John W. Marchbanks.

Very truly yours,
H. H. Smith

TAKING PART IN DALY CITY'S first parade is this Daly City Fireman's float. Then, as now, the hose hoisters went all out for the best float in the parade. The firemen's pitched helmets, nickle cigars and commanding appearance proved a real asset for the parade held here July, 1911.

"I have worked with many P. G. and E. customers for years. In that time I know their household rates have come down to where they're actually less today than in 1940. In the same period their use of gas and electricity has about doubled."
—H. B. Coleman, Salinas, P. G. and E. Meter Reader

"Most everything costs more except gas and electricity...and they cost less than in 1940!"

Most everything else is up but P. G. and E. rates—which are actually lower than in 1940. Why is this possible? First, if you're an average customer, you are using nearly twice as much gas and electricity as 10 years ago. And quantity use cuts unit delivery costs. Second, alert employees and careful management work together every day to do their job better, to improve efficiency. The savings that result are passed along to you in reduced rates.

"P. G. and E. pays $601,224.00 taxes in our county, and is our largest taxpayer. Thus low-cost gas and electricity are delivered here by a company that pays its own way."
—Walter R. Tavernetti, Monterey County Assessor

"My family's use of electricity has increased tremendously in the last 10 years. We've added several appliances, improved our lighting, bought a larger refrigerator and gas heater. Yet, our monthly gas and electric bill is no more than the price of a good roast for the family."

City Dedicates Marchbanks Park Just 10 Years Ago

It was just 10 years ago last week that the citizens of Daly City met in the green bowl of the Vista Grande tract to dedicate Marchbanks Park . . . named after J. W. Marchbanks, the man who gave the seven acre site to the city in the early 1900's.

Mr. Marchbanks had first given the city the land as a means of supplying the necessary water to hundreds of residents. A section of the park site is still retained as Daly City's main water source, and just this year more improvements were made on the park itself.

The dedication ceremony June 8, 1941, culminated a program which included a parade, speeches, recognition of "pioneers," and a short dedication of the playground at Acton and Brunswick. The park was named Lincoln Playground. The dedication there was handled by Councilman Edmund Cavagnaro.

Sunderman Speaks

In dedicating Marchbanks Park, Councilman Henry Sunderman said:

"We have decided to call this 'Marchbank Park.' Too often the honors due a man are not prepared or bestowed until after he is dead. John Marchbank, we are happy to say, is still very much alive and a vital factor in this, our community. The story of his benefaction in this community will never be fully told. If he ever becomes famous for anything, it will be for his charity to his fellow men.

"Since 1905, John Marchbank has been a loving and respected neighbor in our city. From the earliest days he has assisted in its development. He personally established the 'Clinic' as a service to the people. He has systematically assisted our churches. He built the theater and the bank and established his home here. During the depression, he helped hundreds of our less fortunate families and no one was too poor or too unimportant in his eyes to merit assistance. Race or creed or political faith made no difference. He helped everyone, even his enemies, for even great men have some enemies.

"We have accepted his favors and experienced his kindness without the least bit of public recognition of his presence in our midst. Daly City would be ungrateful indeed, if, at some time in the lifetime of this, our adopted son, we did not publicly recognize his contributions to our welfare.

"And so we now discharge this duty. We proclaim to all the world and recognize the presence within our midst of one great loyal friend. May he live long and be long remembered. Ladies and gentlemen, I now dedicate for you, and in the name of Daly City, this public park henceforth to be known as 'Marchbank Park.'"

Over 400 pioneers, residents of Daly City for more than 25 years, were recognized during the ceremonies. The "oldtimers" were honored as a part of the 30th anniversary of Daly City.

Meet John Daly... The Man For Whom City Was Named

John Daly, after whom the city is named, is remembered by old timers as a meticulously clean man with a stature and manner much resembling the old Indian fighter Buffalo Bill.

The prominent rancher was never seen without a clean white vest, a campaign hat, a flower in his button hole and his greying goatee neatly trimmed.

"Why that's Buffalo Bill," Henry Sunderman, Daly City pioneer, said today in describing one's first impression of Daly.

Good Man

Although he was to become a moneyed and political power in San Francisco in the late 1800s and early 1900s, Daly never forgot his common heritage. He is fondly described as "generous, charitable, and a man who helped many refugees after the great fire and earthquake to find a home in this area."

Just seven years before the great California Gold rush, Daly was born near Boston Massachusetts. Things didn't go too well for his father, so by 1851 the Daly family decided to head west. Instead of taking the usual overland trail, they came via the Panama Isthmus. It was a disasterous choice, as Daly's mother contracted yellow fever and died before seeing the shores of San Francisco Bay.

Gold In Udders

Convinced there was more money in cows than in hunting madly for gold, Daly went to work on a small dairy ranch near the present Mills Estate in Burlingame. There is no record that he or his father ever caught the gold fever.

When he had tired of working for another man, he and a W. J. Fifield founded a dairy ranch of their own near Pilarcitos Lake. This ranch is now part of the watershed of the Spring Valley Water Company.

Slowly the holdings of Daly began to spread over northern San Mateo County and southern San Francisco. About 1890 he opened the San Mateo Dairy and distributed milk from his local ranches via a central plant at 1010 Valencia Street in San Francisco.

Face Lifting

After the great fire not only the face of the Daly City area changed, but John Daly was instrumental in that change. He, and seven other dairy men consolidated and founded the Dairy Delivery Company. It was this organization, guarded by the army against marauders, that distributed milk to refugees of the fire and earthquake.

The first real deliveries of the company were made from the Boston Farm Dairy at 24th and Folsom Streets. A few years later the company moved to 19th and Guerrero Streets, a site it held until another move in 1933 when taken over by the Bordon Milk Company.

While he was not actually engaged in the dairy business from 1906 to 1923, Daly was closely associated with it and was president of the Dairyman's Association of San Francisco. He also had an active interest in politics, and many of his candidates held office in the Bay City.

Retired

By 1907 Daly had disposed of his ranch at the "top of the hill" in Daly City and retained but three or four acres between San Jose and Mission Road back of where Stockton's Lumber Yard was located. It was here he moved his old horse barn from the San Jose-Mission intersection, built a small home and devoted most of his time to raising dahlias until his death at the age of 81 in 1923.

During his latter years Daly was a familiar figure to scores of local children. He often could be seen in the mail business district distributing dimes and nickles to youngsters who secretly believed he was a retired Indian fighter. They were wrong in one respect, but dead right when they believed him a fighter . . . Daly lived and died fighting to help his fellow man.

IT WAS A BIG DAY - - - JULY 4, 1911

Town Went All Out For First Celebration

To Daly City, the Fourth of July, 1911, was more than the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It was the first celebration of the city's incorporation.

A mass parade was held here that day, followed by the dedication of a fountain and waiting station, a gift of the city's father, John D. Daly.

Site of Landmarks

The site of the landmarks was San Jose Avenue and Mission Road, on the historic path of the padres, the El Camino Real.

The parade, under the leadership of Marshal of the Day Dennis Quillinan, was delayed a half an hour because of a mist from the ocean that morning. But soon the sun broke through and the parade was on.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. on Orange Avenue, the procession proceeded northward on Mission to the Mission Company Line Club building near Sickles Avenue, countermarching to Templeton Avenue, thence east to Irvington street, south to Crocker Boulevard, west to Mission and then to the junction of San Jose Avenue and Mission for the exercise.

2000 In Parade

Approximately 2000 participated in the parade that was witnessed by a crowd of 5000.

City officials, declining the use of carriages, followed on foot the Grand Marshal. Then came the Civic Betterment League and the Daly City band.

Professor W. J. Savage led several hundred school children, waving flags, in the parade. The children were rewarded later with free cornucopias of ice cream at Mrs. Mullins'.

The peppery Eagles Drum Corps in lead of the Colma Vista Grande Aerie came next followed by the Volunteer Fire Department all in uniform and wearing their new red hats.

The Progressive and Junior Socialists of Daly City made an impressive appearance in the parade. They were followed by the Lady Foresters, dressed in white and riding on a beautifully decorated float.

The Woodmen of America were next in the procession with their float. Then came the Daly City baseball teams.

Winding up the parade was a novel float by the Hog Raisers Protective Association. It had an elevated cage in the center containing a closely shaven sow and a litter of pigs.

Dedication Ceremonies

At the dedication ceremonies President William M. Talbott of the Betterment League, introduced guest speaker E. D. Knight, city attorney, who on behalf of Daly, presented the flag and waiting station to the city, and at the close of the speech the flag was unfurled.

Mayor Freyer accepted in behalf of the city, and then Daly was introduced. Standing there with his silvery hair gleaming in the sunlight, he detailed some of the history that led to that day. He seemingly lost sight of his own munificence in giving these landmarks to the city, and with the deepest feelings of emotion thanked the people for the honor they had bestowed upon him in naming the city. At the close of Daly's talk, he was showered with bouquets.

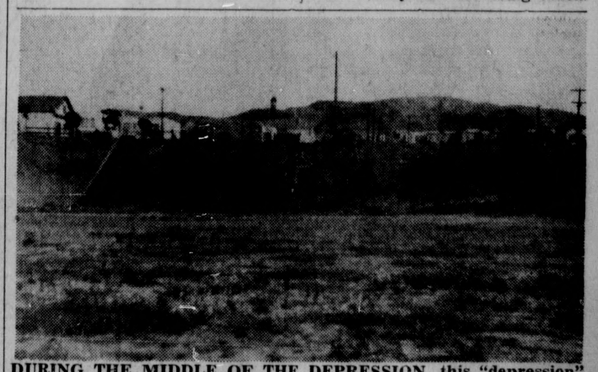
When the exercises closed the crowd followed the band to the park for the remainder of the festivities.

Family Dinner Night Is Church Event

Featuring the showing of a color sound film, "Fire Upon the Earth," family dinner night will be held Friday beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Grace Presbyterian Church at Crocker and Winchester streets. Everyone is welcome.

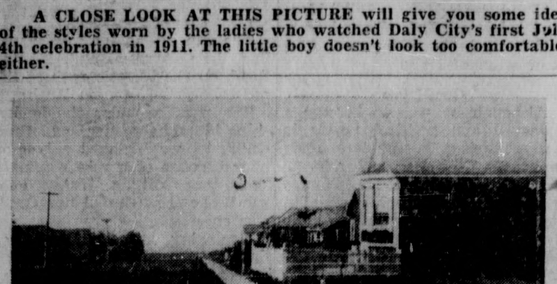
BLACK BASS BITING

Black bass are still biting in Shasta Lake up in Shasta County, reports the National Automobile Club. Many fish are being taken.



DURING THE MIDDLE OF THE DEPRESSION, this "depression" served to lift many a man into a job. It is, of course, the beginnings of Marchbanks Park where in 1938 scores were employed for three days a week. It was Daly City's own PWA, and it saved many a family from going hungry. Three years later the park was dedicated, and is now used by thousands of local children for much happier pursuits.

A CLOSE LOOK AT THIS PICTURE will give you some idea of the styles worn by the ladies who watched Daly City's first July 4th celebration in 1911. The little boy doesn't look too comfortable, either.



WHEN YOU WENT WALKING in the early half of this century, you put on your high boots. This street, in the heart of town, is typical of the dirt and mud that was the excepted thing of that era. However, to protect those on foot, board sidewalks were put down.

THIS WAS YOUR DALY CITY LIBRARY back in 1920. Given to the city by J. W. Marchbanks, the library was named after one of the founding fathers, John Daly. This section of the library is now used exclusively for the children's room, and the new addition faces on Mission Street. The library is located at the "top of the hill" near the Mission and Hillside Boulevard intersection.

EARLY IN ITS HISTORY Daly City became famous for its musicians. One of the more unique bands of the day was composed of these five hearty, bearded lads. They could make German music like nobody's business.

THIS WAS MISSION STREET in 1936 when the first improvement was made to widen the street. At the upper center can be seen the dome of the old Masonic temple. Since then, the temple has been replaced by a modern concrete and steel structure.

THE YEARS BETWEEN····

'30s Were Years Of Depression And The NRA

Prosperity was gone. Daly City and the nation as a whole was hard hit by the depression in the year 1931.

This was the year butter cost 31 cents a pound; coffee, 35c a pound; and eggs were 20c a dozen. Jean Harlow starred in Howard Hugh's "Hell's Angels." The gold star mothers and widows made a pilgrimage to France.

Large Enrollment

The opening of the spring '31 term at Jefferson High was marked by the largest enrollment in the history of the school, 410.

Two VFW posts and auxiliaries were organized in 1931. First came the Old Glory Post followed by the Daly City Post.

Governor James Rolph Jr. was tendered an ovation when about 500 citizens met in Colombo Hall, Colma, to attend the victory banquet of the 23 Assembly Club and the Colma Rolph Club.

Colma Annexation

By substantial majority the people of Colma voted in favor of the annexation of a considerable portion of Colma to Daly City. In addition to about 25 blocks of the main section of Colma, a portion of the residence section, the area proposed to be included within the corporated limits of Daly City would take in Junipero Serra Boulevard and a strip of land 200 feet wide on the west side from the San Francisco County line to about one block from School Street.

Buz Arlett, Oakland outfielder with the Oakland PCL club for the last 13 years, was sold to the Philadelphia Nationals. Arlett was a good hitter and bolstered up the gap vacated by Lefty O'Doul.

On Thanksgiving morning, 1932, residents of the city witnessed the dedication of the newly completed million gallon reservoir, located on the highest peak in Daly City.

Goldkuhl Elected

W. J. C. Goldkuhl was elected president of the Veteran Firemens Association.

Manager Ed Cavagnaro's Daly City Merchant's ball club opened another season. The lineup was Rettig, ss; Plansky, cf; J. Bonetti, 3b; Walsh, 1b; Cameron, c; Albrecht, lf; P. Bonetti, rf; Taggart, 2b; and Hawley, p.

Mrs. Stella Jensen and Andrew Vireno were elected to the school board.

Jeffs Win, 13-6

Jefferson won its traditional grid contest with South San Francisco in 1931, 13-6. The game, however, was overshadowed by a paint war between the schools.

The city council passed a rigid ordinance prohibiting fireworks on the Fourth of July.

Late in 1931 prohibition was on its way out. The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors memorialized congress in favor of modifying the 18th amendment to permit light wines and beer, as a stimulus to business. The board said it would not only stimulate business, but increase government revenues, lower taxes, curtail crime and racketeering, and aid farmers and fruit growers.

New Courts To Be Set-Up In San Mateo, Burlingame

The State Senate today passed and sent to the Governor for signator AB 1365, by Assemblyman Richard F. Dolwig, which provides for Municipal Courts in the cities of Burlingame and San Mateo.

The bill sets up one judge at $10,000 annually, with several court attaches.

The United States Mint at San Francisco produced $3,299,002 worth of silver coins in 1949.

City Almost Doubled In Size During The '40s

The year 1941 was a momentous one both for Daly City and the nation.

The United States entered World War II on December 8, 1941. President Franklin D. Roosevelt made the declaration following Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor and Wake Island and the invasion of the Philippine Islands.

Although the Japanese attack shocked the people of Daly City, they knew that eventually war would have been inevitable. Yes, 1941 was a tense year in Daly City.

Civilian Defense

Early in the year, a San Mateo County Civilian Defense body was formed. The organization, made up of county law enforcement officers, facilitated the coordination of county defense activities during an emergency, should one arise.

James G. Reardon, Daly City Police Chief, was one of two leaders in charge of the intelligence division, which was given the job of gathering information about the county defense industries and strategic locations in the area.

Reardon and the South San Francisco Police Chief investigated subversive activities in the county.

Increase Draft

The call to the colors came to the men of Daly City throughout 1941. The draft ratio increased steadily each month.

As defense activity climbed steadily to a new intensity throughout the nation, Daly City joined the effort when the city council passed an emergency ordinance creating a local Defense Council, with the mayor as chairman.

Its duties were coordinated with the activities within the city, of governmental and private agencies, and individuals cooperating in the defense effort.

First Blackout

The defense mobilization came to a climax on December 8, when Daly City had its first blackout. Nearly 800 volunteers were enrolled in various civilian defense posts.

Also in 1941, women were looking with new interest at their old aluminum utensils these days. There was a distinct possibility that those lowly kitchen pots and pans became part of of an airplane, or tank, or battleship.

The aluminum drive was conducted throughout the nation to make up for shortages in that important metal.

Housing Shortage

The housing shortage became acute in 1941. In fact a tabulation of data collected by the Housing Authority of San Mateo County resulted in a preliminary estimate that there were in Daly City approximately 185 substandard dwelling units occupied by tenant families.

On the lighter side of events in 1941, Stanford opened the year with a Rose Bowl victory over Nebraska. The dynamic backfield foursome of Frankie Albert, Norm Stanlee, Pete Kmetovick, and Hugh Galleneau were too much for the Cornhuskers.

Ginger Rogers portrayed Kitty Foyle on the screen in 1941, while Pat O'Brien starred in the title role of "Knute Rockne, All-American."

Early in the year, the 1940 census was revealed. Daly City gained more than 22 per cent in population during the previous 10 years, and had a population of 9,625. In 1930 the population was 7,387.

Marchbank Park

The biggest local event in 1941, however, was the dedication of Marchbank Park, which climaxed the 30th anniversary celebration of the incorporation of Daly City.

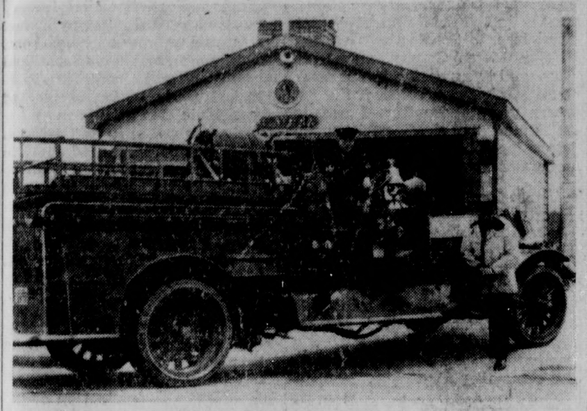
1941 was the year of the home building boom in Daly City. The tax rate was $1.09 then.

Jefferson High School offered to the children a well-balanced five-cent lunch. This service continued throughout the summer months.

Behind the brilliant pitching of Herb Poddig, Coach Art Briggs' Jeff nine came second in the P.A.L. race. The Jeff gridders defeated South San Francisco, 20-6, in their Thanksgiving Day traditional.

Due to a reduction in their quota of leaders, the Daly City WPA Recreation Department had been compelled temporarily to discontinue activity at Our Lady of Perpetual Help School and the General Pershing School. Only four men and one woman remained to carry on the recreation work here.

TYPICAL OF THE CITIZENS WHO TURNED OUT for the Civilian Defense effort during the war years are these men and boys. The whole town was organized to meet any emergency, and won national recognition for the best civilian defense set-up in California.



ONE OF THE FIRST "Modern" fire engines in Daly City was this giant fire fighter. Thanks to the machine and the volunteer fire company, Daly City residents had excellent protection from blazes during the roaring '20s and '30s. Today, the same fine fire organization protects local homes.

San Mateo Assemblyman Submits Bill On Unemployment Insurance Controls

Governor Earl Warren no doubt will be on the well known spot when he is presented with Assembly Bill 2502, which is a measure by Assemblyman Richard E. Dolwig, of San Mateo County, tightening up unemployment insurance payments.

The measure is hotly opposed by labor, whose representatives failed to stop it in the Assembly and likewise in the State Senate, where there were only a few votes against the bill.

On the other hand, it is as strongly supported by half a dozen lobbyists who have worked in Sacramento all through the session to get the bill through both houses.

Their success will contribute to the governor's dilemma when he receives the bill, as it will be hard at this particular time to offend either side.

Disqualifies Thousands

The measure briefly provides a worker may not draw insurance a second time on his base period earnings. This explanation, however, does not go into the extensive ramifications presented by the measure, which are that as far as is known, several thousand people drawing unemployment insurance will be disqualified when its provisions go into effect.

The measure was even tougher when first presented, but it was toned down somewhat to meet the labor lobby's objections.

When the bill was debated in the senate, it was presented by Senator Earl Desmond of Sacramento who long has been an advocate to tightening up the apparently loose methods of paying out millions of dollars to unemployment insurance claimants whom the proponents of the measure claim were not entitled to the money in accordance with the intent of the legislature when it adopted the compensation law.

Liberal Opposes Bill

Opposition to the measure in the senate was spearheaded by Senator George Miller, of Contra Costa county, who is as well known for his liberal tendencies as Desmond is on the conservative side.

Miller claimed the measure would take thousands of workers off the unemployment insurance rolls, cause want and suffering, with a resultant increase in indigent payments by counties. He also charged that the so-called "evils" the proponents of the bill sought to correct could well be corrected by thorough and proper administration of the department of employment.

Much of the argument harked back to administration of the department, the director of which is James G. Bryant, one-time employee of the Federal Social Security Board, who was "imported" by Governor Warren during the Governor's first term.

Bryant's contention always has been that he is carrying out the provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act, and that if anyone wants it changed, the changes should be made in the legislature and not in the department.

Need Sounder Administration

However, both labor and business lobbyists state in private that much could be done to secure a sounder adminstration of the department, if the interpretations of the act were on a different basis.

The governor, it is believed, will not evade the issue even if he could, for he never has made it a point to fail to act on any bill that reached his desk.

Counties in Louisiana are called "parishes," after the old Spanish religious divisions.

Estimates of budgets for workers' families in large U. S. cities are available from the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Senate Passes Veteran's Appropriation

The constitutional amendment for $150,000,000 additional funds to purchase homes and farms for veterans was passed by the State Senate today, assuring its submission to the people of the state at the next general election.

The bill was authored by Assemblyman Richard H. McCollister, Marin and Sonoma counties, and is an extension of the several bond issues the people of the state have voted for the veterans. Money is derived from the sale of bonds, and the bonds are repaid by payments from veterans who purchase homes and farms.

PRODUCER FOR A DAY

by Ridgely Cummings

My friend Abe is a promoter but judging from last week's experience I fear he will soon have to develop auxiliary talents and become a truck driver or a factory hand. He is rapidly promoting himself out of a reputation.

I've known Abe for several months without ever learning the details of his many projects. Then the other Saturday morning I met him at breakfast and automatically became a television producer. Just for a day.

To be a TV producer one needs money, experience and ability. I'm a little short on the first two but that didn't bother Abe.

Good Deal

This Saturday morning Abe greeted me with unusual warmth. He told me I was looking well, inquired into the state of my health and after various other amenities revealed that he wanted to "cut me in on a good thing."

The good thing was a packaged TV show, to run three times a week for 13 weeks.

Such generosity pleased me. The motive soon became apparent. Abe was in a spot because he had arranged an audition for the following Monday and as yet had nothing on paper.

A terrific talker, Abe had a large group of people interested in his project but now he must give them something concrete. He needed a writer.

We spent the weekend hashing out the first script and Monday afternon at audition time I showed up at the Sunset Strip agency wearing, at Abe's urgent request, my cleanest shirt and an intellectual expression.

Bad Times

Abe was already there, adorned in a flaming red beach costume with shirt tail out. He massaged his crew cut so energetically and fiddled with his horn-rimmed glasses so frequently that I surmised he was uneasy.

The audition room was crowded. In addition to agents, known as flesh-peddlers out here, with actors and actresses in tow, to try out for roles in our show, there was an assorted group of men and women who were introduced as backers of the project. They didn't look like they had fifty dollars in cash among them.

Abe introduced me as the writer and producer and left me to carry the ball. The producer part surprised me but I sensed that Abe was desperate so took over.

Audition

It was the first audition I had ever conducted but I knew that the actors would feel better if they could read their lines without their rivals looking on. So I selected one set of actors and asked the others to wait in the lobby. Then I passed copies of the script around and started them reading.

It is a sobering experience for a writer to listen to a dozen artists read his lines and try to bring them to life. A few phrases rang true and that is a good feeling. But other expressions that had tripped off the typewriter now sounded wooden and forced and artificial.

I squirmed mentally as the awkward lines were repeated and repeated with varying inflections by these good people who were trying so hard to impress us. It is a cumbersome way to get rewrite ideas but an effective one and I made several pages of notes for changes in dialogue.

Finally all the actors had taken their turns. The "backers," including me, voted on which ones we wanted and Abe signed with the agents of the successful artists a memorandum on fees, which didn't commit him to anything unless the show went on the air.

Stalled

As we were breaking up, the animal trainer with the animal to be featured in the first script approached Abe and said he needed an advance to feed his pet. Abe asked if I had twenty bucks handy. I said no and he stalled the fellow.

At last we were alone outside and Abe could satisfy my curiosity about his "backers." They were all friends and casual acquaintances, people he had brought along to impress the real moneybags, a woman who had not shown up for the audition.

The chap he had introduced as his agent was a typewriter repair man.

The stout woman with the grim face was Abe's landlady, who had a financial stake in his ventures because he was behind in his rent.

The woman he had introduced as a television expert was an unemployed secretary who hoped to break into TV. She had watched a lot of shows and could rattle off comments on stars and show formats.

Glory

His stage designer and prop man was a clerk and window dresser in a small store on the Boulevard. And so on down the line.

Despite the non-appearance of his wealthy woman, Abe was elated by the success of his audition rather than discouraged. As I write this he is struggling to arrange an audition for an advertising agency, using the services of the actors he has provisionally engaged.

But I strongly suspect that I have had my moment of glory. Abe's elaborate structure, designed to impress an investor, seems ready to collapse for lack of financial support. Chalk up one more Hollywood experience.

Residents Asked To Support New County Blood Bank

The lagging fund-raising campaign to construct a building to house the San Mateo County Blood Bank may mean that this vital service, which provides life-restoring blood for local citizens as well as the armed forces, may, through lack of public financial support, be seriously curtailed.

This bleak picture concerning the future of the bank, was presented today by Dr. Carl Hoag, Blood Bank President. The drive is now entering its final two weeks.

The present blood bank which is located in temporary quarters on San Mateo Junior College grounds, is faced with eviction. This, combined with the increasing demand for its services as a result of the Korean War, has fored the bank to seek a new location and construct a building of its own.

Funds Behind

Dr. Hoag said that less than 50 per cent of the money needed for the blood bank building program has been subscribed to date by county citizens, business firms and organizations.

It was his opinion that this "lack of interest" on the part of certain individuals and firms was due to their unfamiliarity with the essential job the bank does in collecting and dispensing whole blood and plasma to the sick and injured.

"In Korea at this very moment," Dr. Hoag said, "whole blood and plasma originally processed at our San Mateo Blood Bank, is being administered to a wounded American boy. This blood was flown directly to his fighting area by special plane."

Great Tragedy

"It would be a great civic tragedy," Dr. Hoag said, "if, through public apathy, the blood bank would have to cut-back its operation, thus reducing the magnificent service it is providing to our fighting men."

It was Dr. Hoag's opinion that peninsula citizens and organizations would not sit idly by and permit the blood bank to curtail its services.

He felt that many residents and civic groups have been intending to offer their contributions to the blood bank building fund, but may not have known where to send their contributions.

He said that checks may be mailed or taken directly to the present blood bank headquarters at 25 South El Camino Real, San Mateo.

$100,000 Wonder Speaks To Lions

The $100,000 wonder, Ed Cereghino, was the guest of Daly City Lions at their regular meeting Wednesday.

Big Ed, who has pitched his way through Jeferson High School and right into the baseball jackpot, was presented to the Lions by Jack Shaw, sportscaster and newspaper writer.

Sharing in the 18-year-old's glory was his father and Glen South, athletic director for Jefferson High School.

The only "hitch" to the meeting was noted by President Gil O'Shaughnesy when he introduced Shaw. "Here I am, a representative of Standard Oil Company, giving Associated Oil a plug," he said. Shaw is sponsored by Associated.

WATER SAFETY COURSE OPENS AT JEFFERSON

San Mateo County youngsters landed with a splash Monday in three San Mateo County pools. It was the opening day of the first Summer Swim Campaign in which these children will be taught Water Safety under the direction of certified Red Cross instructors.

Some 200 North County youngsters are taking advantage of sessions at Jefferson High School Pool in Daly City open mornings, co-sponsored by that High School District and the Red Cross and co-ordinated by Mike Orlich.

HIGHER ELEVATIONS OPEN TO ANGLERS

Lakes in the higher elevations of Inyo County have been opening up gradually during the past few weeks, reports the National Automobile Club. All but the highest lakes are now becoming free from ice.

SALMON TO BE SCARCE IN CALIFORNIA 1953-54

Prospects look gloomy for salmon fishing in 1953 and 1954 in the Merced, Tuolumne, Stanislaus, Mokelumne, and Consumnes rivers, according to results of a spawning survival survey just revealed by the California Division of Fish and Game.

The census of the spawning beds, taken by fyke-netting and releasing young downstream migrating salmon in the Central Valley rivers, indicates that damage done by winter floods was most severe in the network of the American River and southward.

Extensive damage to spawning grounds in the Yuba and Feather rivers was also noted.

Streams north of the Feather river weren't appreciably affected, the Bureau of Marine Fisheries survey showed, and Mill Creek, north of Chico, was "jam-packed" with young salmon.

The worst-hit streams may draw a blank for a season three or four years from now, but the loss won't show up while salmon maturing in the ocean continue to return to the spawning grounds, according to Biologist Donald H. Fry. A normal spawning season this fall will restore the interrupted cycle about 1955.

The floods of 1950 carried parent fish above the normal high water mark for spawning, and when waters receded, eggs were left high and dry. This, combined with scouring of river bottoms by flood waters, almost wiped out one generation of fish in the affected rivers, Fry said.

Salmon fingerling rescue operations will relocate—and thus save for future angling—an estimated quarter of a million young fish in Tehama County creeks by midsummer, it is revealed in an announcement from the California Division of Fish and Game.

More than 130,000 two- and three-inch fish have been removed from receding waters this month by teams of the Bureaus of Marine Fisheries and Fish Conservation, with aid from a group of local sportsmen. The Elk Grove hatchery crew also has netted and transplanted an additional 50,000 fingerlings from the same streams.

The fingerlings—"flood babies" spawned in last winter's overflowing creeks—were placed in the Sacramento River near Los Molinos. Rescue crews are continuing operations to save as many young fish as possible before local streams recede to summer levels.

CAVERN PUNISHES WESTSTATES, 18-7

Banging out 20 hits and 18 runs, the Cavern Liquor store nine swamped Weststate Realty last Sunday, 18-7, to take the lead in the summer AA Funston league.

Decker with three for five, Fazzio with three for six, and Mackrus with a perfect four hits for four times at bat, garnered half of their team's hits and lead the attack.

Every member of the Cavern starting nine made at least two hits, except for Domecus who made one hit, but scored two runs.

Two Sundays ago the Caverns brutally trampled Park-Presidio, 30-2, in a game which was stopped in the fifth inning. McDowell had the Park-Presidio boys guessing as he only allowed seven hits and struck out nine batters.

Over a span of two games, Cavern Liquor Store has scored a total of 48 runs in 14 innings or an average of three and a half runs per inning.

'CYCLES TO RACE AT BAY MEADOWS

Entries are arriving daily for the second running of the 20-mile National Championship Motorcycle Race program at Bay Meadows Sunday, July 1, and virtually all of the nation's leading motorbike pilots are expected to compete.

William P. Kyne, who is promoting the event with assistance from the San Francisco Motorcycle club, has increased this year's purse to $7,500, which makes it the richest of the year for the country's motorcycle race riders.

Annual 'Cycle Classic

The prize money boost is another step in Kyne's plan to build the race up to where it is recognized as the annual motorcycle classic of America. He hopes to eventually make the race as important in 'cycle racing as the Indianapolis race is to auto racing.

Among prominent riders already entered are Bill Miller of Mountville, Pa., who holds the 100-mile road race title, and Bill Tuman of Rockford, Ill., winner of the five-mile and eight-mile championships, both of whom are newcomers this year.

Champions Entered

Entries were received yesterday from Paul Albrecht of Sacramento, current U. S. seven-mile champ who finished second in last year's 20-miler at Bay Meadows, and Paul Goldsmith of Detroit, third in the 1950 race at the San Mateo track.

Larry Headrick, last year's winner, will be unable to defend his crown because of a broken leg sustained in a recent accident.

The championship program includes eight five-mile races as preliminaries to the 20-mile contest.

Part of the time trials and practice runs are scheduled for Saturday, June 30.

SHARKS PREY IN DERBY

Charles Jordan, of San Bruno, was today named to act as general chairman of the fifth annual Coyote Point Shark Derby, the only shark fishing competition held in the United States.

Co-sponsored by the San Mateo Lions' Club and the Coyote Point Yacht Club, this unique event is staged each year off Coyote Point in the waters of San Francisco Bay to help in the development of outdoor recreational areas for youngsters and to rid the bay of sharks which devour game fish.

Others selected to serve on the clubs' executive joint committee to assist chairman Jordan are: Bud Krohn, treasurer; Jerry Joroslow, executive director; and the following directors: Harry Flemming, president-elect of the San Mateo Lions Club; Ray Withers, the 1949 general chairman; and Jack Edwards, who will again enact the part of "King Neptune," a costume role he has played for the last three years.

A definite date for the fishing competition in the latter part of September will be announced as soon as clearance has been obtained, general chairman Jordan stated.

Employees accepting illegal pay increases are subject to heavy penalties set by the Defense Production Act.

HOLY ANGELS VIE IN CHAMPIONSHIP

TALK OF THE TOWN

By DIANE DALY

Since every week seems designated for some one thing, it might be timely to recognize this week as Preventive Home Accident Week, and get busy removing home hazards, which according to statistics are injuring and killing a great number of people every day.

An overloading of electrical circuits is a situation very common in a lot of homes in this day of electrical servants, and should be thoroughly checked. Storing of paints and inflammable materials in areas near heaters and pilot lights is another prime factor in fires and subsequent loss of material. The extended telephone cord has come in for its share in home catastrophes, tripping an unsuspecting victim, sometimes, at the tops of stairs.

In some homes, basement and bathroom doors open off the central hall in similar locations, and unless clearly identified, make a bad fall possible by a guest or child, if not the housewife herself. Small or steep stairs can be painted white, to facilitate safer descent.

Poisons and insecticides should be carefully segregated and put in locked or inaccessible cupboards, where children cannot reach them.

Improper action or failure of gas appliances or outlets should always be reported to the PG&E and prompt service and correction will result.

Finally, let someone lead the crusade against the slaughter of innocents, by getting rid of guns and revolvers which fulfill no feasible purpose, except to tantalize imaginative youngsters. Tragic accidents fill the papers with appalling repetition, where firearms, instead of affording "protection," bring only heartbreak and loss. Sportsmen, who are worthy of the name, should not only train their sons in the handling of a gun, but practice what they preach to the most minute detail.

How about you? If any of these shoes fit—why not decide to change the picture this week and give old skull and crossbones a vacation too!

REVERSE

Dauntlessly changing the usual procedure, young Joe Bobachi, Jr., of 14 Lake Vista Ave., in Westlake last week charged an automobile, driven by Mr. R. O. O'Neill of 83 Lake Vista. A bump on the nose which had to be treated at Junipero Serra Hospital convinced him he was not as big and strong as he thought. Joe is three years old.

HONORS

On his way to the Montezuma Mountain school at Los Gatos soon will be Gerald Jacobs, son of Michael Jacobs (owner of Kings Market) who was one of two local high school students to win Junior Statesman Award scholarships. He will receive intensive training in legislative English, public speaking, ethics, American and constitutional government, besides taking part in a student government workshop. Gerald attends Burlingame High.

HERE AND THERE

Rio Nido Resort on the Russsian River has been the rendezvous of quite a few of the younger set. Having quite a time recently were stags, Paul Ortiz, Bill Ritter, Jack Kennedy, Les Nicolini, Lukey Stamos, Bob Varni, Al Johnson and Bob Vernango, all of whom devoted several days to swimming, dancing and just plain loafing, after the busy pre-commencement round.

FIRST BORN

That big radar-proof bird favored a certain street in Westlake lately when he made his initial delivery to the Jack B. Whites at 8 Westlawn Avenue. The new feminine bundle is named Jo Ann and she was welcomed by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Chris Norgard of Portola, Calif., who is keeping things running smoothly for the happy parents.

At 158 Westlawn Avenue, the Peter Cancilla's were also being congratulated on the arrival of their first born infant daughter, Karen. Mr. Cancilla, who is studying for his teaching degree at State College, is also boning up on "Infant Care."

Maryanne and little Suzanne Ivons at 668 McArthur Drive in Broadmoor, were just as thrilled as their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ivons when a little boy arrived to make the family total five. He will be named Charles Thomas, but will no doubt be Tommy to his adoring sisters and proud Mom and Pop.

Diane Marie was the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Cortopassi, of 151 W. Moltke Street, for their second child and first daughter who arrived several weeks ago.

DALY CITY DATA

The "Sweeney and March" program, aired daily as a serial over the Blue Network, on one installment last week rollicked through "news" from home—Where?—Why Daly City, of course. . . The fictitious valedictorian of the high school, one Willard Hudson, instead of giving with a speech, played and oboe solo. . . Sue Ellen Carpenter, the shoemaker's daughter, being overwhelmed with bronze (unclaimed) for ash trays for her wedding. . . Hi-Jinks involving the potted plant in front of the Auto Court—which is "stolen" perennially. . . and Dentist Dr. Lynam, who reminds his patients, as all our good dentists do, sets the stage for the skit which ends with the wrong victim in the dentist's chair—but fun.

DOMICILE TRANSFER

The popular S. P. Cormacks, with daughters Phyllis and Donna left this week to take up residence in their newly completed home in Los Altos. Their former neighbors and friends on Muirwood Drive were sorry indeed to see them go, and presented the family with a selected Rhododendron for remembrance.

FATHERS DAY

Last Sunday morning a father and son program was presented under the auspices of the Holy Name society, at O.L.P.H. with Prexy Bill Carrington in charge. He presented Judge Thomas Bocci, who was an interesting speaker and covered the highlights of parent's responsibility in the legal sense. The ample breakfast of ham and eggs with all the trimmings was served by the Mother's Club, with Mrs. Jean Denning, president, in charge.

CONCLAVE

Delegates to the state convention (F.O.E. Aerie 1848), which will be held in Santa Barbara from June 22-24, include Gerald Summers, Del Fehl, Tom Rae, M. D. Battye, Frank D. Davison, Ernest Romer and Bill Carrington. Many of the delegates' wives will accompany them.

F.O.E. Auxiliary Escort Team and officers will do installing honors for Golden Gate Auxiliary No. 161 this evening.

SURPRISE

To the accompaniment of popping flashbulbs, Miss June Brandt was ushered into the presence of an assembled party of friends, guests of Anna May McDermott, who were gathered at the Bellevue Avenue home of the Frank McDermotts. Assisting Miss McDermott was Miss Barbara Bordson. Covers were laid for 18 guests among whom were the bride elect's mother, Mrs. Leo Brandt, and her prospective mom-to-be, Mrs. Charles Bartel Sr.

The decor was charmingly done in white streamers and wedding bells, the centerpiece being a betrothal cake. Conversation pieces were the assorted novelty ices in molds of bridegroom's slippers, etc. Many lovely gifts were showered on the charming Bride-to-be whose wedding is slated for August.

VISITING

Mrs. Carl Ball Sr. arrived from Tucson, Arizona, to visit her son and daughter, the Carl Balls (Jr.) of 385 Winchester Street.

HOLIDAY HANDBOOK

The Fred Bertettas are working faithfully on their new summer place at Boulder Creek with so many volunteers.

Many localites at the Sunday picnic at Paradise Cove, given by O.E.S. and Masonic Lodges of Ingleside, Justice and Roosevelt. Lucille Williams, of Cliffside Dr. doing a heroic stint behind the counter. . . The Henry DeLeons dancing a fancy jitterbug. . . 8-year-old Jimmy Garrison winning a big basket of groceries and a salami!

Down Big Basin way were Fire Chief Kennedy and B. W. Maxine, enjoying an outing. . . At Monte Rio on Russian River, Mrs. William Harrold and her daughter, Barbara Shipman, opened their cottage with guests Lyn Nottingham and Carol Davis enjoying a visit after the round of graduation festivities. . .

Almost taking over Sieglers Springs in Lake County were the Dolan families: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dolan with daughter Louise, Mrs. Mary Ellen Hankerson with daughter Helen, son Richard Hankerson and his new bride, and Joseph Dolan Sr. doing welcoming honors after a previous lone week by himself. The Dan Dolans were on hand for the day, bringing daughter Deanna up to join the fun.

At home, Shirl Mollette, D.C. Garden club's consultant, was glimpsed putting the final touches on the patio he has had under construction for the Harley Hookers at 26 Muirwood Drive. . .

Elman Rose and Erle Johnson of the Daly City Recreation Department were being congratulated on the summer programs for all the kids with printed schedules available at the Water Dept. and Library—and swimming, arts and crafts, baseball, badminton and movies are just a few services getting the bid of the eager junior City-zens. My bouquet of the week to these men for a fine job!

MAILMAN'S HOLIDAY

With the new Post Office building construction under way, at Bepler and Mission Circle, our enthusiastic postmaster, Superintendent Thoms, can be seen during lunch hours at the site, keeping up with the progress. He figures that moving day will not be far off, and believe me, he'll know just where to put everything by that time.

MRS. BARKER, TEACHER AT PERSHING, RETIRES AFTER 34 TEACHING YEARS

After 34 years of teaching, 26 years in the Jefferson Elementary School district, Mrs. Morris Barker, popular second grade teacher at General Pershing school, has retired.

Gifts from her pupils, fellow teachers and many friends mounted on her desk continuously last Friday afternoon, the closing day of school, and the end of her 18 year stay at General Pershing.

Mrs. Barker has noticed many changes in the school district and Daly City since she began teaching here. "I have been pleased with the progress of the community," she said. "My associations here have pleased me in all respects. My associations with the trustees, principal, special teachers, and fellow teachers. I especially had good associations with the PTA."

"As for the children," she said, "I shall miss them all, more than they will miss me. I have enjoyed teaching. There have been many laughs and many tears."

Although she is a resident of San Francisco, Mrs. Barker has noticed mainly the increase in population of Daly City over the years. She lived here eight years.

Among her many pupils were Mayor James Paul Green, Harold and Aloise Lange, and police officers Roy Beecher, Jack Walsh and Dave Johnson.

Before leaving, Mrs. Barker said, "I'll never forget General Pershing school, and I'll always be coming back to visit."

Paper Drive to Continue

The paper drive, conducted by Cub Scout Pack 84 of Broadmoor, will continue through the summer months on the first Saturday of each month.

Residents of Broadmoor who have waste paper are requested to tie up their stacks of papers and place them in front of their houses on the designated Saturdays because there will be fewer Cub-Scouts collecting during the summer.

During the last drive there was one Cub for every 25 houses, but in the summer there will be one Cub for every 50 houses and collection will be facilitated by disposing of the papers as indicated.

Lutheran Chorus Will Give Bay Area Concert

San Mateo county Lutheran Churches join with those of San Francisco in sponsorship of the concert by the International Lutheran Hour chorus June 29th at 8 p.m. at St. Paulus Church, Gough and Eddy streets, San Francisco.

E. H. Ohlendorf of Daly City is the local publicity chairman for the concert and states that the Lutheran Hour Chorus comes highly recommended and probably has been heard by more persons during its 17 years of broadcasting than any other chorus of radio or the concert stage.

DEAR PARENTS

By Jane Keith

Looking over my past "Dear Parents" columns I find that a good deal of space has been devoted to the physical punishment of children by their parents or other adults. Spankings, slappings and whackings and whalings—all have come in for their share of dissection and criticism, but the worst punishment has been neglect up to now.

"What is worse than beating a helpless child?" one acquaintance asked me in very well modulated and cultured tones—and proceeded to give me a lecture on how an INTELLIGENT and EDUCATED person goes about punishing a child. Her lecture was a revelation, not of approved methods, but of her own personality and its lacks!

"Why," she said earnestly, "all I have to do to my Joanie is just LOOK at her and she toes the line without any trouble at all! I have never given her a spanking in her whole life—both my husband and I have certainly read enough psychology to knew better than that." And so on and on——

The woman was speaking the truth about her "physical" punishments of her child, but she had evidently stopped reading that psychology book before the chapter on "mental" punishment—the chapter she needed most to read!

I have seen the "LOOKS" she gives to Joanie and heard her voice, venemously sarcastic, whip around the child like a "cat-o-nine tails." Joanie and all other children can stand up much better under a hearty kick in the teeth given in honest anger with its normal follow-up of forgivenes and forgetness. Calculated malice is not normal in children.

Sarcasm, persistent teasing and laughing at a child's efforts to understand and adjust himself to an adult world are cruelties from which children never completely recover. They are much worse than even a severe beating; because, for one thing, they can be inflicted upon the child for days and years on end—and there is no law against it—no protection.

Guard your tongue! Break dishes, kick the furniture or your husband if you must—or your wife, but if you love your children at all, think before you speak—and I mean, THINK LOVINGLY!

COOPERATING WITH TRAFFIC OFFICERS

The traffic officer of today is busier than ever coping with drinking, reckless, and speeding drivers, declares the National Automobile Club. By cooperating with him, by checking on your own driving habits, you will help keep the highways safe both for yourself and for others.

Films Are Shown At P. T. A. Meeting

"Seashore Oddities" and "Water," two technicolor films were shown at the last meeting of the General Pershing Parent-Teacher Association June 5. Throughout the last week of school, several classes also were shown these newly released films by H. Falconer, Supervisor of Schools.

In view of the summer vacation, Mrs. M. Taylor, safety chairman, reported on her meeting with the San Mateo County Traffic and Safety Commission. Caution in use of bicycles, swimming and playground facilities were stressed and parents were urged to cooperate with careful driving.

Reports were given by Mrs. Lyal Ingersoll, Mrs. Howard Derham, Mrs. Clyde Noe and Mrs. A. W. Lauffenburger, members who attended the School of Information of the 17th District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Because Harry Reidi, the General Pershing School caretaker for the past nine years will retire in September, a gift in the form of a check was presented to him at this last meeting.

Forty six pupils who graduated from the fifth grade were guests at a luncheon recently. PTA chairman, Mrs. Burt McKenna, with the cooperation of Mesdames Florence Young, M. Anderson, Mildred Whinnen, A. Rosenburg, S. Eiben, G. Kaiser, A. Gensel and T. Holcomb helped on the committee.

Favors designed by Mrs. John Calvin were in the form of graduation caps.

Program Committee Plans Year's Work

Meeting recently at the home of the chairman, Mrs. George Bertucci, the program committee of the Colma Parent-Teacher Association worked on the organization's themes for the coming year. Present were Mrs. Wiesner, Mrs. William Chessman and Mrs. Edward J. Dennis.

Bernice Ferrari Becomes Bride Of Fred Pasero In Redwood City Church

Miss Bernice Louise Ferrari, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ferrari of 804 Clinton street, Redwood City, and Fred Joseph Pasero, son of Mr. Fred Pasero, 33 Vale street, Daly City, were united in marriage, Sunday afternoon at Mount Carmel Church in Redwood City. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Father Thomas Phelan.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a beautiful white satin gown whose train supplemented the train of her illusion veil. Her corsage consisted of two white orchids, and bouvardia and stephanotis.

The matron of honor was Mrs. May Charette, sister of the groom, whose gown for the occasion was of toast colored lace fashioned ballerina style. Of powder blue color was both the satin background for the dress and her shoes. She wore yellow carnations in her hair and carried a bouquet of the same blossoms.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ann Borsi and Miss Dorothy Borello, cousins of the bride. They wore ballerina style toast colored lace dresses offset with yellow backgrounds and yellow shoes. Their hair was graced with orchid carnations, the same flowers comprising their bouquets.

Raymond Charette, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man and ushers were Robert Bloom and John Martino.

The bride's mother wore a light blue crepe dress styled with a jacket and trimmed in lace. Her hat was of a lavender shade.

The American Legion hall in Redwood City was the locale of the wedding reception, after which the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Southern California. They will make thier home at 929 Grand street, Redwood City.

The bride, who graduated from Girl's High School in San Francisco, became affiliated with the Allstate Insurance company in Menlo Park. Pasero, who is employed with the Southern Pacific, served in the Army Transport Service during World War II.

THREE CHILDREN GET ELEMENT'RY. DIPLOMAS

Without fanfare of orchestra or long-winded speeches, some students of the county secured their elementary school graduation diplomas last week, in some cases without ever having been in a regular class room.

These students were children whom illness, either chronic or protracted, had kept from regular school attendance, but to whom the schools of the county had sent teachers into the home for individual "home teaching" courses. These teachers operate from the office of the County Superintendent of Schools and include Mrs. Carol S. Falt, Mrs. Claire L. Isaac, Mrs. Bessie DeYoung Olson and Mrs. Violet C. Winklebleck.

"Graduation for three of these children last week meant that they had overcome terrific handicaps in order to secure the education which comes so easily to many children" said James R. Tormey, County Superintendent of Schools.

Four Local Students Get SMJC Degrees

Clarence Lack and Franklin Whorley of Daly City and John Olcese and Raymond Settrini of Colma were among the 276 students to receive diplomas at the San Mateo Junior college commencement exercises Sunday afternoon at the Woodland theatre in Hillsborough.

The commencement speaker was Dr. Monroe Deutsch, vice president emeritus of the University of California. He spoke on "The debt we owe our nation."

The open air theatre made a beautiful setting for the 29th commencement program held by the junior college. Full academic dress gave color to the exercises. The college orchestra played for the processional and recessional and for the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," and the college A Cappella choir sang two selections.

President Charles S. Morris presented the class; and U. S. Simonds, Jr., president of the college board of trustees, gave out the diplomas.

The night before graduation the class held its formal dance at the Claremont hotel in Berkeley, and Sunday noon the group met for the traditional class luncheon at the Chukker restaurant in San Mateo.

Volunteers Needed At Girl Scout Camp

by Marian Griffis

Nearby Camp Mattrup has been the focal point of much activity the last few Sundays.

A number of our public-spirited residents have volunteered their time and service in readying our local Girl Scout day camp.

Among those who have assisted are Mr. Saarinen who has sprayed the surrounding poison oak twice. Mr. and Mrs. McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. Alley of Sharps Park erected a fence around the reservoir.

Mr. William Watts, the Ralph Damons, the Nolans, the Hathaways, and Mrs. John Klingler combined their efforts to put up a flag pole, build a table, construct a fence, and dig a garbage pit.

The women concentrated their efforts in moving a load of wood that blocked the road-way and rescuing a family of 7 baby field mice that were buried beneath it.

Sunday, June 24, will be the last day scheduled for checking the trees and completing the necessary carpentry. Anyone wishing to offer their services on this project may contact Mrs. John Klinger, PL. 5-0573 who will supply further details.

How to make good telephone service even better....

Faster Long Distance service if you place your call like this Maybe you never thought of it this way, but you can help your Long Distance operator save your time if you give her your call like this: First, the name of the town you're calling. Then the telephone number. And finally the name of the person you're calling—if it's a person call. You'll find this tip particularly helpful these days when Long Distance lines are busy carrying the calls that are aiding our military forces and our industries to build the nation's strength.

Have you started keeping a handy out-of-town number list? You'll find you can save considerable time in completing Long Distance calls if you give the operator the number you want rather than just the name and address. That way, you see, you won't have to wait while she calls "Information" in the distant town to get the number you're calling.

DISPUTE ON RETIREMENT MEASURE RETARDS CHILD CARE CENTER BILL

A dispute over $643,000 today threatened to bog down child care center funds for the next fiscal year as the Senate Finance committee delayed action on a bill sponsored by Assemblyman Ernest Geddes, Los Angeles county.

The committee held the bill pending further information on another bill by Senator Fred H. Kraft, San Diego county, also providing for child care centers which is now before the Assembly Ways and Means committee.

The bill sponsored by Kraft calls for $5,381,943 to finance the centers during the next fiscal year. The bill was passed by the Senate and sent to the Assembly.

Meanwhile, the assembly passed the Geddes bill which calls for $6,027,000 to finance the centers. The $634,000 differential is designated to provide retirement provisions for center personnel, placing them on a level with other state workers.

When the bill reached the Senate Finance Committee there were violent objections to the retirement plan and Senator H. E. Dillinger, Placerville, said the Geddes bill was placing child care centers on a permanent basis, something the state does not wish, as they are designed to serve only during the period of emergency.

Geddes said he had no objection to removing the retirement provision but said he felt there were other provisions in his bill which made it more desirable than the Kraft measure. Among these provisions would be one to require parents to pay a larger share of the cost of child care center operation.

MANY ACTIVITIES ARE SCHEDULED BY WOMEN OF MOOSE

Although the San Francisco Chapter, No. 739, Women of the Moose, conducted its last meeting of the 1951 fiscal year last Thursday, activities of the organization will continue throughout the ensuing weeks.

Scheduled for August 16, 17 and 18, is a rummage sale to be held at 1257 Webster street, San Francisco, under the chairmanship of Lucille Evans. Proceeds from this event as well as an October bazaar will be used to carry on the Chapter's work of caring for children and the aged.

In July at Lomita Park, the Friendship group of the Women of the Moose will convene for its first meeting of the new year at the home of the Junior Graduate Regent, Vivian Lasko, who is planning a buffet supper for this occasion. This group is composed of members who have received the second degree of honor for meritorious service in the order, and those who recently had this degree conferred upon them at a special state meeting in Los Angeles are: Charlotte Wood, Pearl Smith, Ruth Myers, Mary Murgatroyd, Theresa York, Mae Potter, Pauline Paulson and Lucille Evans.

SUMMER RECREATION

Movies Planned Each Monday; Baseball Clinic Slated Tuesday

by Erle Johnson

With the termination of this, the first week of the Daly City Recreation department's summer program, the staff is looking forward to ten more fun-packed weeks.

Next week the movie program will start on Monday and the high school game room will be the theater for the youngsters in that neighborhood.

Bellevue Hall will be the theater for the northern side of town. "On the Sunny Side" and the first episode of "Red Barry Serial" will be the selections showing. The first show Monday will start at 9:30 a.m. and the second at 11:30 a.m., both of these at the game room of the Jefferson High school. The third showing will be at 2:30 p.m. at Bellevue Hall.

Tuesday boys under 11 years of age will meet at Marchbank park and the high school with the Directors for the Baseball Clinic. In the morning the clinic will start at 10 o'clock and in the afternoon the older fellows will meet at the two aforementioned places at 2 o'clock to start the summer baseball league.

Wednesday the playgrounds will be open for any sports or games that might be of interest. The game room at the high school is a very popular place for ping pong and pool, and other games. Marchbank Park is always a place to have fun, especially if you like to play on various types of apparatus.

The giant spiral slide is always good for a thrill, and the speedy merry-go-round is really fun to ride. Mothers are welcomed and we have a special place on the middle-level for your youngsters. On one side of the Park a "tiny-tot" area is set aside with small apparatus manufactured by experts just for youngsters under the age of 9 or 10.

Thursday the schedule will be similar to that of Tuesday, with folk dancing at the high school game room, also held on Tuesdays. The folk dance classes are held at 10-11:30 a.m. The early part of the period is for beginners and the latter part for people who know the dances. Miss Muriel Pabst will hold regular sessions at Bellevue Hall each Monday night at o'clock.

The first Outing will be held on Friday with a trip to Thornton Beach for the annual beach party. You may contact your nearest playground director for more details and to sign up for the party. Thornton Beach is just a few miles from the center of Daly City—nice hike. Soft drinks and hot-dogs will make up the menu, plus anything special one may care to bring. For further information on next week's activities please telephone the Recreation Office at PLaza 5-0477.

Craft Centers Opened

The following is a schedule for this summer's crafts: M.W.F. 9:30-10:30 a.m. Parkview Center at 101 Parkview in Daly City, just a block each of Marchbank Park. ....

Tu.Th. 10:00-11:30 a.m. Crocker Elementary school on Bellevue Avenue. The playground will be supervised during the crafts period to take care of those waiting to work at some type of craft or art.

M.W.F. 3:00-3:30 p.m. Jefferson Elementary School at 14 Allemany Street in Colma. The Jefferson playground will also be supervised.

P. T. A. Mothers Fete Graduation Classes

Eighth grade graduation classes of Miss Marie Traynor and Don Pagani at the Colma Jefferson Elementary school were feted with a luncheon and entertainment by the Parent-Teacher Association Mothers Sunday in the Thornton school basement.

Favors took the form of rolled diplomas inscribed with the prophecy of each student. Tap dancing by Wayne Flansburg and accordian selections by Robert Gaggero comprised entertainment numbers. Also playing an accordian was Herbert Frost who in this manner led the procession into the luncheon room.

Guests of honor besides the two teachers were the traffic officers and the class officers of the two graduating groups.

Hostesses for the event were Mesdames Chester Flansburg, Frances Landi, Herbert Green, Barbara Brandt, Louis Stanghellini, Burch, Claude Fair, MacAvoy, Niblock, William Hutchings, Ray Brown, Guaraldi, Orovitz, Zanoni, Thomas Blanco, Bartelli, Edith Bocci and John Wiesner.

FIRECRACKERS VERBOTEN HERE

Firecrackers may be legal in San Francisco's China Town, but not here.

Jun-Lum Lee, 6624 Mission Street, awoke to this truth Tuesday when he was arrested for allegedly selling the firecrackers to local youths. Lee was released on a $100 bail, and will appear in police court Friday.

Police Chief W. W. Sunderland says this is the first violation of the firecracker selling law since 1934.

The arrest followed several complaints by local residents that youngsters were setting off firecrackers in front of their homes. Questioning the children, police were led to Lee.

Local Woman Obtains Important Office

PLANNING COMMISION FINALLY MAKES DECISION IN WESTLAKE BROADMOOR STREET PROBLEM

Commissioners Agree With Local Needs Over Protests Of County Engineer

Wavering for the fifth time in almost two years, the county planning commission finally took the big plunge last Friday and approved a road between Broadmoor and Westlake.

The commission reversed several previous decisions when it sanctioned a street which will run from 87th Street north to the Westlake Shopping Center and thence west to the extension of Alemany. Previous to this, the commission had expressed disfavor for any route other than one adjacent to the new Garden Village School.

Strong Objection

County Engineer M. A. Grant strongly objected to the commissioners final decision. He said the new road will be too expensive as it will mean an indirect route, and the removal of two homes on 87th street.

Charles Becker, attorney for the Westlake Association, urged the planning commission to approve the connecting street. He noted that an impasse would be reached if the commission went along with Grant, as the Jefferson Elementary School Board had turned thumbs down on Grant's proposed route. The board said they would never allow a street to run so close to a school.

In pleading his case for a connecting street, Becker noted:

Useless Schools

"Schools without roads leading to them are useless. Now the children of Broadmoor can safely reach the Westlake school and the children of Westlake can safely reach the Broadmoor schools.

"Growth and development are directly centered around transportation and communication between people and communities, and the connecting of these two fine new residential areas is a step in the right direction."

Becker also asserted that presently fire engines and other emergency equipment must travel Junipero Serra Boulevard to reach either Westlake or Broadmoor. With a new road, he said, the problem of a bottleneck between the two areas will be eliminated.

Public Meet

The next step in securing the road will be the calling of a public meeting by the Jefferson Elementary School Board. At that time pros and cons will be heard for the road. If more than one-third of those present oppose the route, the final decision must be made by the County Superintendent of Schools.

When the question first arose scores of Broadmoor residents objected, as they said they didn't want a main thoroughfare cutting through their district, or a street going across school property.

Overcome

However, Becker told the commissioners Friday that this "resistance was overcome when it was realized that the connecting link between these two areas was necessary for the proper development of the entire community."

Should the final stamp of approval be given the road it will be sometime before its construction. There is still the matter of financing, which will have to be worked out between the county and Daly City. Also to be considered is the Ocean Shore Railroad which allegedly owns a strip of land the road must cross. The Railroad may strongly object to the crossing.

Don't Mix Temper With Liquor

Temper and liquor don't mix.

That is the opinion of Daly City police and Ronald Hoerner, 17, 758 Hanover Street. Tuesday, police cited a San Francisco man for being drunk in and around an automobile; and minutes later Hoerner's parents signed a complaint charging the same driver with assault and battery.

It all started when young Hoerner was driving down Mission Stret, and a Thomas S. Mulligan, 1440 5th Avenue, San Francisco, pulled away from the curb at Hillcrest Drive. At the intersection the two machines collided. Mulligan waved Hoerner over to the curb on Hillcrest Drive.

Hoerner looked over the damage, and saw it was slight. He told this to Mulligan. The San Francisco man couldn't see the light, in fact, according to police, he was drunk. The man and the boy had a slight argument.

The argument ended when the San Francisco man allegedly struck young Hoerner. At this point police arrived, and Mulligan was on his way to jail.

Released on $250 bail, Mulligan will defend himself in police court this Friday.

New, Strict Parking Laws Set For Broadmoor

Residents of Broadmoor will undergo strict enforcement of the regulation regarding the parking of unattended vehicles on grades, according to Police Officer Albert Delucchi of the Broadmoor Police station.

Chief of Police Paul Schmidt has approved of this action which includes a maximum fine of $500, 90 days in jail, or both penalties, under the San Mateo county ordinance.

Most of the streets in Broadmoor, according to Officer Delucchi, allow for non-vertical parking of vehicles. When parking an automobile at a non-vertical curb, the owner should set the hand-brake, place the car in gear, block one wheel against the curb, and lock the car.

These safety precautions will prevent the automobile from rolling down the grade, unattended, to cause damage to private property and a loss in human lives.

The upper part of MacArthur, the 657-600 block of Larchmont, and Gilman are the only streets on which vertical parking is permitted.

Parking regulations for vertical parking specify that a driver must lock both wheels against the cub, lock both wheels against the curb, in gear, and lock it upon leaving.

Since it is unlawful to leave an unattended car parked on a minimum three percent grade without complying with these regulations, Officer Delucchi said that every vehicle violating this regulation will be tagged.

MARIJUANA RING LEADER SENTENCED

With Good Behavior Can Get Out In 1½ Years

Peter Perez, 27, won't be selling any marijuana to teen-agers for at least 18 months.

The alleged leader of the South San Francisco dope ring was sentenced to one to six years in San Quentin by Judge Murray Draper Monday. He can seek a parole in 18 months.

Evidence by two narcotics investigators and a 16-year-old girl who had purchased marijuana from Perez gave the dope peddler his ticket San Quentin. Perez was out on a two year probation after being convicted of possession of marijuana last February.

In passing sentence on Perez, Judge Draper said:

"I can think of nothing more despicable than selling marijuana to minors."

Still up for trial are four more members of the ring. John P. Velasco, sixth member of the gang, was sentenced last week to an 180 day jail term for vagrancy.

MOTORIST ALMOST LOSES SCALP

Not many people have been scalped and yet lived through the ordeal, but such was the fate of Mrs. Carrie Maldonado of San Francisco, part of whose scalp was torn away in an automobile accident Sunday on Price Street near Mission.

Mrs. Maldonado and her husband, Henry, 75 Kissling Street, were driving in their new car when it went out of control and hit a light standard, throwing Mrs. Maldonado against the windshield.

While enroute to the Junipero Serra hospital by ambulance, the surgeon noticed that part of Mrs. Maldonado's scalp was missing and he told police to return to the scene of the accident to search for the missing scalp.

Police returned with the scalp and a surgeon promptly stitched it back in place.

According to the Junipero Serra hospital, Mrs. Carrie Maldonado had recovered sufficiently to be sent home on Monday.

SEWAGE PLANT COST STUDIED

People To Be Asked To Approve Bond Issue

Estimated costs of a new sewage treatment plant for the new North San Mateo County Sanitation District will be available within the next month.

A study of the cost will be made shortly by an engineer hired by the District Board, A. J. Gaggero, district officer said.

Included in the new district are Daly City, Broadmoor and sections of Colma. The cost of the plant will be shared equally by all residents of this area.

Early Estimate

Early estimates placed the expense of building a sewage treatment plant at about $450,000. The plant will be paid for by a bond issue to be submitted to the people for their vote later this year.

However, the district probably won't have to foot the whole bill. State funds for about half the total cost of the plant are now available. Therefore, the cost to the district would be about $225,000.

The necessity of constructing the sewage treatment plant is based on a state law of three years ago. According to this law, cities are forbidden to dump sewage into the ocean, and and must find other means of disposal.

Rental Out

Presently Daly City is pumping its waste into the ocean off San Francisco's beach area.

In earlier studies, the city attempted to get around the expense of erecting a sewage treatment plant by "renting" part of the San Francisco Sunset district treatment plant. However, it was found that the cost of the tie-in, plus yearly "rental," would far exceed the cost of building a local plant.

While the cost to individual home owners for the new method of sewage disposal has not been determined, it is estimated to be between 30 and 60 cents a month.

CITY RECORDS TERRIFIC GROWTH

The history of Daly City is a record of almost unprecedented growth.

Where before the great San Francisco earthquake and fire the population of the community was no more than 200, and the area confined to the "top of the hill," by 1911 the population was pegged at over 2,000, and the community extended south to Parkview Avenue, west to Junipero Serra Boulevard and east to the Crocker Hills.

During the years from 1911 to 1948 there were seven annexations, taking in land south to Market Street. The population likewise grew to today's 15,000.

But the past three years have been the major years of growth.

The largest annexation to Daly City was approved by a vote of 3,315 to 1,790, November 2, 1948, when Westlake was taken into the community. And the land area of Daly City was completely doubled in September of last year when another 318 Westlake acres were incorporated into Daly City.

The latter annexation also took Daly City to the Pacific Ocean, making it the first large Peninsula City to have the Pacific as a western boundary.

To the south Daly City has taken in hundreds of homes in the Garden Valley annexation of November, 1948, and September, 1950.

But this is only the beginning. It is expected within the next one to five years that the Daly City area will include Broadmoor, Garden Village, the remainder of unincorporated Colma and possibly a section of the 400 acres in the Crocker Hills. The population is expected to show a corresponding Growth.

Mission-San Jose ...Gateway Streets To The Peninsula

(Courtesy San Mateo County Historical Association

The next time you go over the Mission Street hill in Daly City, pause and reflect, while you wait for the green light, that you are passing through an historic gateway—a natural pass that was for a hundred years or so actually the gateway to San Francisco.

The Spaniards called it La Portezuela. Through it passed all travelers up and down the Peninsula—the famous, the infamous, and the unknown—from Father Serra to American immigrants of Gold Rush days.

It was a landmark on California's most historic highway—The Mission Trail, alias El Camino para San Francisco, alias the County Road, alias El Camino Real, alias U. S. 101. Many stretches of that ancient arterial have been moved so that its original location is largely unknown, but this passage is easily identifiable as part of the original trail.

A City's Gateway

To the east of this pass is a high spur of the San Bruno Mountains, completely barring passage, while to the west is a round, rocky knob which could be bypassed by circling farther west, but the relatively easy climb through the pass was much shorter. To the north of it the road forked, where Mission Dolores and the other to the San Francisco Presidio.

Likewise the traveler coming south, when reaching the foot of the hill, encountered another roadfork. If bound for the Coastside, he swung to the right of the present San Pedro Avenue, while if his destination was San Mateo, Mission Street and San Jose Avenue do today, one branch leading to Mission Dolores and the other to the San Francisco Presidio.

Not until the opening in 1860 of a toll road along the bay shore was there any exception to this. In the 1920's and later the pass became a bottleneck, which has resulted in the opening first of the Bayshore Highway and lastly Junipero Serra Boulevard — over which Junipero Serra never traveled.

HERE COULD BE FOUND most of the population of Daly City in 1909. It is the Vista Grande tract, the beginning of which was marked by Mission and Los Olivos Streets. On the right hand corner now stands the Relish Bakery, while Shannon's Hardware occupies the far left hand side of the street.

James Madison, fourth president of the United States, is called "the father of the Constitution."

One wing of the De Young Memorial Museum in San Francisco is devoted to the art traditions of Europe and America.

Grinding-mill pebbles must be of sufficient hardness and toughness for mill grinding and must be selected by hand.

WESTLAKE NEWEST ADDITION HERE

One of the most significant ground breaking ceremonies in Daly City's long history took place in 1948 when the first shovel of dirt was turned for the Westlake Town and Country Community.

The project was the dream of a San Francisco pioneer builder, Henry Doelger. Friends, looking out upon the 600 acres of rolling hills and cluttered valleys, told Doelger he was mad to think about building homes in such a "gad awful place." The problem of earth moving alone was enough to stop most men, but Doelger only smiled knowingly and went to work.

Less than two months later the first homes were going up, and Doelger's friends were taking a second look at what once had been an "impossible project."

The rest is history, both past and in the making. To date close to 2,000 homes have been constructed, blocks of beautiful apartments and the first unit of an unexcelled shopping center.

But this is only the first step in an $110,000,000 project which in the not too distant future will account for 6,000 new Daly City homes and a population gain of over 10,000 persons.

It was no understatement on behalf of Mayor Paul Green when he declared at the ground breaking ceremonies, "This will be the best residential area in the Bay Area."

GASKET DOES THE WORK

That a spark plug is hard to screw into its port is no reason for stopping the work until the gasket is tight against the block, advises the National Automobile Club. The threads have nothing to do with halting compression leaks. That's the gasket's job and nothing can take its place.

On March 4, 1821, the United States was without a president—James Monroe skipped the regular inauguration date because it fell on Sunday.

DALY CITY TAX RATE HIT AN ALL TIME LOW IN 1936

The year 1936 is remembered for the Democratic landslide in the national election. President Roosevelt carried 46 states in defeating Alfred Landon.

It was the year Jesse Owens humiliated Chancelor Adolph Hitler in the Olympic Games at Berlin.

85 cent Tax Rate

In Daly City 1936 was the year the tax rate hit an all-time low, 85 cents. After a twelve year struggle, the coast highway was completed.

By securing an option to buy the corner lot at Wellington Avenue and Irvington Street from Mrs. Ethel Woodhouse, the Daly City council drove its first staple in a large civic improvement program.

The corner lot in conjunction with adjoining city property was proposed as a site for the new city hall.

For Jefferson High School, 1936 was a big year. Construction began then on the school's gymnasium and swimming pool. John Matthews joined the coaching staff, and after dropping out of the Peninsula Athletic League for a few years because of the lack of material, the Indian gridder rejoined the loop again.

Bill straussburger struck out 17, but Jeff lost, 2-1, to San Jose in 13 innings. Howard Peterson led the Jeffs in batting with a .423 average.

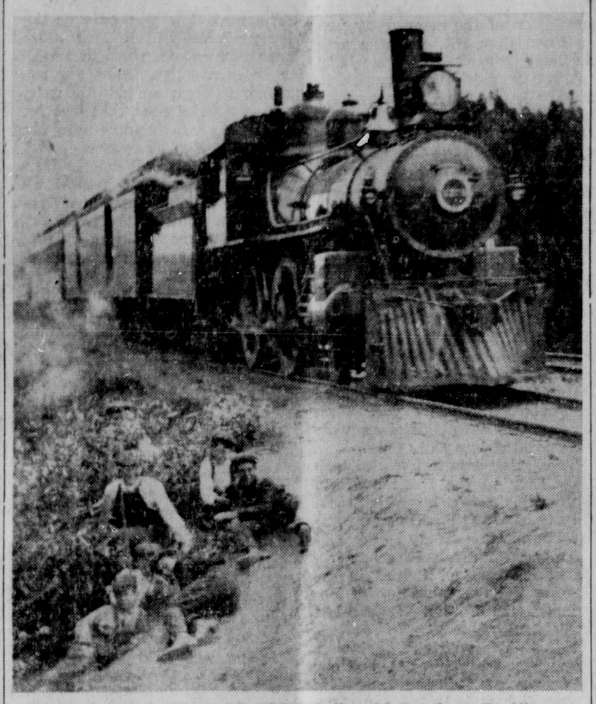
Sheriff James McGrath waged an anti-nudist campaign in the county, particularly at the beaches, where many people claimed they saw naked persons cavorting and cutting pranks.

In 1936 the Record absorbed the First Township Tribune and the latter then was published as part of the Record under the title, "Daly City Record and First Township Tribune."

The city council appointed first A. J. Dalton a police chief, then a few weeks later appointed James G. Reardon to the post.

San Mateo Junior College became a county wide institution in 1936. The jaycee district included the Jefferson school district in its realm.

NOW ONLY A MEMORY is Brackens Hall, the first community building ever built in Daly City. The site of the hall, which went up in 1908, and came down a few years later, was on Mission Street between Beta & Como Streets. Nearby are some of the shacks put up here after the great San Francisco fire.



UNDER A FULL HEAD OF STEAM, the old Southern Pacific commuter train roared past these lads at 30 miles per hour. She was the 1906 fast link between Daly City, Colma and San Francisco. If you went to the Bay City via any other route, you might well plan an all day trip on horseback or buggy. While the engine was smoking, the boys in the left hand corner of this picture were taking a sly drag on corn cob pipes. Yes, those were the days when everyone and everything was "fast."

ROARING '20s WERE YEARS OF PROHIBITION AND RACCOON COATS

The Roaring Twenties were happy and prosperous years in Daly City as elsewhere.

Take 1926 for example. That was the year touring cars were the fad. A new Chevrolet would set you back $525.

You remember 1926. The year Gene Tunney defeated Jack Dempsey before 132,000 rain soaked fans for the world's title. Mary Pickford thrilled the nation in "Through the Back Door." Nibs Price replaced the late Andy Smith as football coach at California. Luther Burbank died in Santa Rosa. In baseball Lou Gehrig was the new regular first baseman for the Yankees and Stanford's All-American fullback Ernie Nevers was breaking in with the St. Louis Browns.

This was the year Daly City got its new motion picture theatre, located at the corner of Mission and Flournoy Streets. The new theatre building, costing $91,000, is a combination theater, office and store buiiding.

The "pioneer" class, the first class to complete four full years of work at Jefefrson High was graduated in the auditorium. Also this year Jefferson was included in the list of high schools accredited to the University of California. Seventy-five per cent of the boys graduated by Jefferson entered college.

The Colma bottleneck was broken in 1926, too. The State highway commission widened the road through the cemeteries south of Colma 124 feet.

A typical ad of 1926: Improve your radio with a good loud speaker—Rolus, Brades Western Electric, etc., $5 down, $1.50 a week.

A bridge across San Francisco Bay north of Hunter's Point would be a detriment to movement of naval vessels in the bay and would interfere with the activities of the proposed naval base at Alameda.

A 45 minute parking limit on Mission Street was set.

FIRE DEPARTMENT KEEPS IN STEP WITH DALY CITY'S GIGANTIC POPULATION INCREASE

In May of 1907, Vista Grande, which lay just over the county line from San Francisco, was an unincorporated town of frame buildings, unpaved streets and no water system.

It was a little town whose citizens had been driven there by a major catastrophe, the work of those twin demons, earthquake and fire. A town menaced by the very evil from which its citizens had fled.

The town fathers realized that something must be done to protect against this, so, on June 12, 1907, a committee from the Vista Grand Improvement club was appointed to form a volunteer fire department.

First Meeting

The first meeting of the newly organized fire company was held at Poket's hall, and a committee was then appointed to solicit contibutions to build a bell tower and purchase a chemical (hand variety) fire extinguisher.

George A. Edmonds, the first Chief, issued orders that all members respond with their own buckets until equipment could be purchased. Buckets in the 1907 Fire company were the most important items of equipment.

The bell tower on the corner of what is now Vista and Miriam Streets was erected in September of that year. The Ladies auxiliary also was set up then.

Fight First Fire

The first fire fought by the company was at the Vista Grande Grocery in October, 1907.

In November, the department purchased boots, overalls and badges for its members. Drillswere organized. The year 1910 were held twice monthly, and the men were becoming highly proficient at the handling of the bucket line. This bucket line often found many women of the Ladies Auxiliary assisting in it when there were not enough men present.

In the Fire Company's minutes of December 15, 1907, it is recorded that the first wagon for carrying the hose was built by Fireman W. J. C. Goldkuhl. This wagon was a two-wheeled affair, pulled by manpower.

During November, 1908, the department purchased the first fire plugs for the water mains. Socials, dances, and parties were the chief means of raising money for the purchase.

In 1910 the Hillcrest and Mission District Fire departments also saw the organization of Daly City's first baseball team with James Poket its first captain.

Move Station

At this time the fire station was moved from Ryan's store to Vogel's Bakery. The Fire Commissioners voted to install 60 plugs in Vista Grande and Mission tracts.

At the fire department meeting of March 7, 1911, Goldkuhl and H. H. Smith made some pertinent and carefully considered remarks to the effect of incorporating the different districts into a town. It is probable that the incorporation of Daly City resulted from the suggestion made at this meeting in conjunction with initiative taken and work done by the various improvement clubs of Daly City.

In May of that year plans were made to organize a fourth company in the Crocker tract, as the town was rapidly growing in population, and the need for further fire protection was acute.

Electric Lights

June, 1912, saw a committee of A. Johnson, F. Hansen and Dr. Castle from the Civic Betterment League calling on the department to secure its aid in having an electric light system put into the city.

Throughout the year Daly City was making rapid strides of progress; action was taken by the citizens to have paving put in and a system of fire alarms to replace the Hillcrest general alarm.

Also in June of this year a water system was acquired. The acquisition of this gave the department water pressure for fire fighting that was second to none.

New Trucks Added

New trucks were added to the department in 1914. These trucks, the property of the various companies, were mostly built and assembled by the individual companies themselves.

In 1918 Spanish influenza broke out as an epidemic, necessitating the closing of department meetings.

The first department paper, "The Alarm," was published in 1921. Also that year the city decided to install the taper system of fire alarm.

At a meeting of Company No. 4 in June, 1922, it was voted that each member secure a cap, shirt, tie and belt to be used as a uniform at the joint picnic. This was the start of the present-day uniform of the department.

City Takes Over

In order to make this condition possible, the department recommended to the city council that it take over all fire property and pay the members $1 a year as firemen.

During 1925, the Veteran Firemen's Association was started. Fritz Hansen, who had much to do with the organization of this body, became its first president.

By 1929 a mechanized fire department answered the call in Daly City. The city was now divided into fire districts, putting the whole of the city constantly under fire protection. Each company answered the calls in its own district, and the other companies stood by to lend aid if necessary.

In the latter part of 1930, Daly City annexed a portion of Colma. At this time two fire companies existed in Colma, and with the annexation one of these companies came into the Daly City department as Company No. 9.

By April 4, 1938, the installation of the alarm system with a new type of air horn took place in the annexed section of Colma. This made a total of four horns.

Modernization of the department continued in 1941 when the city accepted a proposition in the bond election calling for two new fire houses, four new trucks and the revamping of the fire alarm system.

Finally, after 44 years of voluntary fire fighting service, Daly City inaugurated a full time fire department of six men with Elmer Kennedy chief. The volunteer firemen however, are still on hand to render aid in the time of need.

LAST STATE DUEL FOUGHT HERE IN 1859

One of the most famous duels—the duel to end dueling in California—took place near the border of Daly City and San Francisco.

The year was 1859. The participants were David S. Terry, Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court, and U. S. Senator David C. Broderick.

The issue was slavery. That year the California Democratic party was faced with the question of which faction, pro-North or pro-South, would control the party. Broderick was opposed to slavery, while Terry was a leading supporter of the pro-slavery Buchanan Administration in Washington.

Forced Duel

Present evidence seems to indicate that Terry forced Broderick into a duel in an effort to rid the Democratic Party of its most outspoken anti-slavery advocate.

In the ear y morning of Tuesday, September 13, 1859, the two men met on the shores of Lake Merced. Senator Broderick walked west and turned to meet Terry who was facing east. Two shots were fired and Broderick was wounded. He died of the wounds three days later.

Sad Death

Reports indicate that the death of Broderick was a great shock and occasioned a mass funeral with many demonstrations of grief and indignation. Terry was arrested, but he successfully avoided being brought to trial.

A monument marking the site of the famous duel was erected in 1917 by the Native Sons of the Golden West. In 1949, through the efforts of the San Mateo County Historical Association, a bronze plaque to call attention to the site was placed on Junipero Serra Boulevard, just north of the Westlake cutoff.

School Children Display Drawings

Drawings depicting scenes from Our American way of life will be on display for the next two weeks in the windows of the PG&E in San Mateo and Burlingame. The pictures, done in various media of water color, crayon and pencil, were created by the seventh and eighth grades from San Mateo county's elementary schools.

Miss Gail O'Grady, general supervisor for San Mateo County schools, and Mrs. Lionel Clumeck, Junior Red Cross chairman for the local Red Cross chapter, inaugurated the program in county schools last April, in conjunction with the International School Art Program, now in its fourth year and active in seventeen counties.

Interest in the new program was stimulated by recent showings in the schools of colored slides of pictures done by youngsters in other parts of the United States and several foreign countries.

To date, over 100 pictures have been submitted. After its public display, the art work will be sent to National Red Cross where some of the pictures will be selected to add to others from all over the country to make up exhibits to be sent for display in other lands. The program will continue when schools convene in the Fall.

Marines Open Door For Draftees

U. S. Marine Corps District Headquarters Recruiting Station in San Francisco has just received news of interest to all men of draft age.

From June 15 through July 15, persons having received orders from their Local Draft Board to report for preinduction examination may voluntarily enlist in the Marine Corps.

In the cases of high school and college students who have received their induction orders and have been deferred until the end of the school year, they may apply for enlistment provided that they come to the recruiting station under their own volition and write to their Selective Service Board at least 30 days prior to the time their deferment is up, stating that they wish to have their case reopened for the purpose of volunteering for enlistment in the U. S. Marine Corps.

The Marine Corps has encouraged all men who fall in this category to apply for enlistment immediately to facilitate courteous and convenient processing of an expected large number of applications.

The Marine Corps Recruiting Station here in Daly City is located at the Post Office Building.

40 Voice Choir Schedules Program Saturday, June 23

"THE CHAPEL CHOIR," a name synonymous with the best in acapella choral music, will sing a concert in the Marine's Memorial Theatre (Sutter and Mason) in San Francisco, on Saturday, June 23 at 8 p.m.

The 40 voices that make up the choir, belong to students of Capital University in Columbus, Ohio, and its Conservatory of music, one of the largest and finest in Ohio. The Choir, singing completely unaccompanied, is thoroughly schooled in the fine art and traditions of acapella music.

"I think that I have never heard better, if as good and beautiful ensemble singing as yours. The selections and their rendition, so legitimate and so truly musical without artificial or superficial devices, provided an example and instruction to all others—whomsoever," said Squire Coop, head of the Music Department of the University of California at Los Angeles. (July 1, 1951.) This is but one of a volume of acclamations by the nations leading critics, composers, and educators.

Under the direction of its founder, Ellis Emmanuel Snyder, the Choir has been singing the best in Sacred Music to music lovers throughout the eastern half of the nation for nearly a quarter of a century. It is now engaged in its third tour of the West coast and during June and July will sing in 11 states and two provinces of Canada.

The forthcoming concert in San Francisco is the first for this nationally famed group of artists in this city. It is being sponsored by the American Lutheran Churches of the Bay Area. Admission is by free ticket, available from any National Lutheran council Pastor or by calling: JU. 4-8501 or JU. 4-0293. After 7:45 the doors will be opened to all.

Workers engaged in interstate commerce are covered by the Federal wage and hour law unless specifically exempt.

ANGLING ANGLES
by old Hi

With July at hand, anglers throughout the country set their interests in taking black bass. As a group, the large-and smallmouth bass and their relatives form America's favorite fresh water fish.

For the sport, action, and skill involved, many anglers prefer to catch bass by means of bait casting. Some of those fine bass lakes of Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan have yielded prize winning small-mouths, and from North Carolina to Florida and Texas huge largemouths have been duped by darting plugs.

You take "The Ozark" tubular steel bait casting rod 5½-feet in length, attach a "Hibridge" level wind casting reel filled with 50 yards of 12 pound test Skirr braided nylon casting line, snap on a Schmoo plug bait, and cast it to the lily pad clusters or weedy set-backs. You have just the right outfit to tangle with the 10 and 12 pound largemouths, or 5 pound scrappy smallmouth bass.

In plugs, to cover every condition, you need both solid and jointed, top water and deep running; and these should be in red-and-white, green-and-yellow, scale finish, and shore minnow finishes.

These lures, together with double spinners, single spinner with pork strip, and ordinary nickel spoons, are reliable summer tempters when the bass are deep and both casting and trolling is to be done.

You may weight the plugs where the water is deep over a grassy bottom, and troll them at moderate speed in a hitchy sort of fashion. Often this plan brings good sized bass to net. Lake George, in New York, is one notable place where this system has worked successfully.

Other tips on taking bass by bait casting, and especially at night, are given in Old Hi's free booklet called "Fishing For The Millions", and a copy will be sent to you promptly if you'll drop a penny postcard request to me, in care of this newspaper. We'll have more to say about taking bass by other methods in a week or two.

Since bass, walleyes, pike, and pickerel are so fond of minnows, you should use one of the new double duty galvanized pails with 10 quart floating bucket. This features a new built-in bait can to carry worms, crabs, or frogs, which makes it extremely handy for extended trips or when several fellows go along in the along in the party. Here's an angle you should consider if you go after these game fish often, when a variety of bait counts.

Live bait boat fishing is very popular and effective along both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, and for this sport you want a good boat rod. Both the "Chesapeake" and the "Jamaica", 5½-feet in length overall, are fine tonkin bamboo boat rods. In tubular glass salt water boat rods, you would find the "Pompano" and "Admiral" to be ideal for general use.

By sending for your free copies of Old Hi's booklets "Salt Water Sports Fishing" and "Pacific Coastal Fishing", by addressing a postcard to me in care of this newspaper, you'll learn how best to use boat rods of this nature for taking all kinds of inshore game and food fish. Send for your copies today.

Smart Enough For The Army . . . But Not To Vote

JUNE 21. (CNS)—As far as the assembly is concerned, 18-year-olds must wait until they are 21 to cast ballots.

The lower house today defeated a proposed assembly constitutional amendment sponsored by Assemblyman G. Delbert Morris which would have placed on the ballot an initiative proposing to make voting by those under 21 legal.

Morris, and other proponents, pointed out that if a youth is old enough to be handed a gun and told to fight, he is old enough to have a voice in the election of public officials.

However, other assemblymen charged that because a youth was taken by the army or navy is no sign he has reached a standard of intelligence needed in selecting the best candidates.

The proposed amendment lost 35 to 31. A total of 54 votes was necessary for adoption.

PAIRED OFF, all set for a picnic, in tan and white comfortable "go-together" casuals. She's wearing a Nan Westley two-piecer, with a washable cotton blouse that's a designer's adaptation of her date's handsome shirt. He's wearing tan slacks and the new Arrow Bi-Way shirt that can be worn with or without a tie, for its unique collar construction eliminates the stitching on the inside seam, and the automatic fold line provides adequate space for a necktie without bunching or bulging. Welcomed by wearers as a great step forward in solid comfort (where it's needed most in summer—at the neck), the new Bi-Way shirt with Arafold construction comes in five different collar styles and on all Arrow sport shirts. State Retail Sales Increase

JUNE 14. (CNS)—The extensive increase in retail sales in California to more than a billion dollars a month was shown today in a report of the state board of equalization.

The board said that for the third consecutive quarter, retail sales of goods subject to the sales tax exceeded three billion dollars.

The figures are estimated for the first quarter of 1951, and the state collected approximately $95,225,000 on the basis of the three percent sales and use tax.

The taxable sales volume of every class of business identified in the survey of the board of a sample of its record showed an increase in the level of a year ago. Excesses ranged from six percent for limited price variety stores, to an unprecedented 86 percent for heating, plumbing, and electrical supply stores.

Outlets selling durable goods, however, enjoyed a greater increase over 1950 volumes than did vendors of non-durables. Building material suppliers, automotive supplies and parts dealers, farm implement distributors and household appliance dealers all showed estimated increases greater than the all-business average of 24 percent.

Automobile sales, the board said, exceeded $475,000,000 for the quarter, an increase of approximately 13.7 percent over first quarter 1950 transactions and five percent more than fourth quarter 1950 sales. The sales, however, were a fifth below the record level of $590 million in the third quarter of last year.

STATE BUDGET BILL EXCEEDS ONE BILLION

The Governor signed Assembly Bill 500, which will cost taxpayers of the state $1,034,000,000 for the fiscal year 1951-52, being the budget for state operations during that period, or, on a per capita basis, about $10 for every man, woman and child in California.

The Senate adopted a measure which will return some $12,000,000 to the state highway funds out of San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge tolls for use in building highways in the northern 45 counties.

ONLY WHALING STATION

The only active whaling station in the United States is reported by the National Automobile Club to be located at Fields Landing in Humboldt County.

The O'Gara Act creating a San Francisco Bay Rapid Transit commission was passed by the senate today.

The measure appropriates $50,000 for the commission to be used in studying transportation problems of the entire San Francisco Bay Area.

County Civilian Defense Committee Appointed

Appointment of a county-wide committee on Civilian Defense Training and results of the first committee meeting were announced by James R. Tormey, County Superintendent of Schools and recently appointed County Coordinator of Civilian Defense Training by the County Board of Supervisors.

Tormey announced that the county committee would include Joseph Pless, Director of Adult Education, South San Francisco; Philip D. Morse, Director of the San Mateo Junior College Adult Center; Thor Krogh, Principal of the Sequoia Evening High School; and Robert M. Moore of the office of the County Superintendent. Mr. Moore will be Vice-Chairman of the committee.

The committee's first meeting laid plans for speeding up needed training of Civilian Defense workers and a basis for cooperative action through the adult education programs of the county in order to finance the training program.

Requests for courses, assistance in offering courses, and special things as films for training courses will be funneled in each area of the county through the adult education directors in those areas.

The adult education directors of the committee are consulting with the heads of local Civilian Defense units in order to determine priority of training needs. Present indications are that the training will start with area warden training and then take up block warden training.

Don't drive after drinking, advises the National Automobile Club.

Above, James R. Tormey, County Superintendent of Schools, hands a graduation diploma to Diana Hiatt, 14, of 3350 Page Street, Redwood City. Diana, stricken last fall with polio, has been receiving home teacher instructions. She has largely recovered and will be able to enter high school in the fall. Seated next to Diana is her mother, Mrs. Lonnie Hiatt.

The two students below: Quentin Anderson of 552 First avenue, San Bruno, and Walter Bullard of 433 Eighth avenue, Menlo Park, hold diplomas given to them in their homes as a result of the home teaching courses conducted by the county. Quentin is a victim of rheumatic fever, but hopes to attend Capuchino High school in the fall. Walter hopes to attend Menlo-Atherton High school.

C.C.P.T. Holds Executive Board Meeting; Announces Yearly Scholarship Awards

by Mrs. W. J. Ritchie

The new unit presidents of the San Mateo County Parent-Teacher Associations attended the executive board meeting of the 17th district C.C.P.T. when it met Monday morning, June 11, in the Burlingame High School Little Theater.

Scholarships Awarded

Foremost among district reports was the report from Mrs. J. E. Dermondy of San Mateo on the scholarship awards which are made yearly by the 17th district. Awards for the coming year were given to: Roland Persson, San Mateo High; James Hastings, Half Moon Bay High; Jeanne Ellen Parker, Sequoia High and to Mrs. E. B. Tenneson, teacher at Hoover school, Redwood City.

Mrs. George Ashwell from Redwood City gave a report on Parent Education classes being conducted at West Portal school in San Francisco. The sighted are learning to transcribe in brail much needed material such as childrens' stories, phonograph record titles, etc.

There is all too little material available to the sightless. Anyone who would be interested in working on such a project for the 17th district's El Portal school should contact Mrs. Ashwell at EM. 8-2177. Speakers are also available for any association who might be interested in hearing more about this fascinating work.

Cookie Donations

Mrs. R. F. Palmer, community service chairman from San Mateo, reminded presidents that donations of cookies to the Blood Bank continue through the summer. Associations who will be responsible for the summer months are: Arundel, Belmont, Colma, Crocker, Edgemont, Half Moon Bay Union, John Gill, Laurel, Lincoln, Redwood City, Lomita Park, and McKinley Redwood. Any unit having questions or not sure of dates may call Mrs. Palmer at DI. 3-0234.

According to Mrs. J. M. Foley of San Mateo who is district parliamentarian, there will be more parliamentary procedure classes conducted by Mrs. George Beanston in the fall. Classes for the southern section of the county will be held in Redwood City starting September 18 and continuing every Tuesday to and including November 6. Hours will be 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The classes for the central section will be held in San Mateo and will meet Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Voice Approval

It was the decision of the executive board that the 17th district write to the County Board of Education expressing approval of their recent action in regard to curtailing the collection of money by minor children. Also in connection with child welfare, Mrs. Charles Cadigan of San Carlos, read a telegram sent to Senator Parkinson by Mrs. Sirex on behalf of the 17th district.

This telegram stated that the 17th district C.C.P.T. protested violently the budget cutting concerning child welfare services and urged that he "vote to protect essential state department services in health recreation, education and welfare."

All units who have not yet made their donations to the "Quarters for Headquarters" national building fund are urged to do so by Mrs. Sirex, district president, as 17th district is behind in its quota of five cents per member.

The next meeting of the 17th district will not be until September 17, when the executive board will again meet in the Little Theater of Burlingame high school. Attendance of unit presidents will be optional.

Church Program

The Vacation Church School continues next week at The Lutheran Church of Our Savior, Garfield & Junipero Serra Blvd.

Classes are in session 9 to 12 daily. A program will be given Friday evening June 29 at 7:30 p.m. to show what children have accomplished in Bible study, songs and handwork on the theme "The Lord's Prayer." Parents and friends are invited to this program.

Sunday school and Bible classes are held every Sunday morning at 9:45, and Divine Worship services are at 11. The pastor, Rev. R. G. Konzelman, invites the community to worship at The Lutheran Church of Our Savior.

CALABASAS

Calabasas, located in Los Angeles County, is reported by the National Automobile Club to have been named for the calabasas, Spanish for "gourds," that grew there so abundantly in the early days.

EXPECTING THE UNEXPECTED

It is the unexpected that causes automobile accidents, warns the National Automobile Club. If you would be free from accidents, drive carefully and learn to expect the unexpected.

EAGLES SCHEDULE JUNE CONVENTION

More than 1,200 delegates are expected to attend the forty-eighth annual California State Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, convention scheduled to be held in Santa Barbara from June 22-24, according to Eddie Johnston of Glendale, state president of the organization.

"California Eagles have just completed a lodge year calendar which was crowded with numerous civic betterment activities and they are looking forward to a convention where resolutions will be adopted for the continuance of their endeavors in the fields of youth guidance, child health, aid for the handicapped and other worthwhile activities," Johnston declared.

Johnston, as head of the California Eagles, represents 194 lodges in all parts of the state with a combined membership of over 100,000 members. He will preside at the convention sessions in Santa Barbara until the closing meeting on June 24, when his successor will be elected.

"This year the California Eagles will again take a determined stand against the influx of subversive elements in our state and will renew the Eagle pledge to work for the unity of our people and the strengthening of democracy," Johnston said.

Santa Barbara will also be host to the Women's Eagle lodges, who will hold their convention on the same dates as the State Aerie F.O.E. sessions. The women's group includes 102 lodges, representing a membership of 30,000.

Child Centers Get State Money

JUNE 14. (CNS)—The ticklish problem of California's child care centers, located principally in the larger cities of the state, was a step further toward solution today when the state senate adopted SB 65, Senator Fred Kraft's bill making an appropriation for continuation of the centers for another year at least.

The measure appropriates $5,381,943 for the next fiscal year, and specifies that not more than 20 cents per hour per child may be apportioned for child care.

Assemblyman Ernest Geddes has a bill which is somewhat more liberal than the Kraft measure, and debate in the senate took the form of whether or not to wait for the assembly bill. Because of the lateness of the session, however, the solons voted 28 to 8 in favor of the Kraft measure.

The Geddes bill is before the senate finance committee, and will be heard next week, according to Senator Ben Hulse. A letter from Governor Warren permitted action on the Kraft bill, as on the Geddes bill in the assembly, before signature of the state budget.

Child care centers have been in controversy since their origin during World War II, as a place for mothers working in the war effort to leave children for proper care. The legislature never has adopted a policy that the centers be made a permanent part of the state's services, but has extended appropriations year by year, with many legislators hoping necessity for the centers would cease with a return to normal times.

Sheridan PTA Slates Picnic

Due to the fact that the Spring term of Sheridan School ended on June 15th Sheridan PTA was unable to hold their regular meeting for this month.

Mrs. I. W. Ray, Recreation Chairman of PTA annouces that the annual summer picnics are to be held on alternate Thursdays. The first picnic to be held on Thursday, June 21, at Ocean View Playground. Advanced notices will be posted in the Ocean View Library window on 111 Broad Street.

The value of successful living as a family is stressed by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, in making it one of their main points of their program. A family that plays together is a happy family and with this in mind Sheridan PTA has planned these vacation picnics.

On Monday, June 11, a group of ladies from the Executive Board of Sheridan PTA attended a protest meeting held at the City Hall against the closing of 50 local playgrounds temporarily. At the meeting it was voted unanimously to appropriate $11,500 to keep the playgrounds open for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30. Of all the PTA units represented at the meeting, Sheridan PTA had the largest attendance.
